ANOTHER

Special Sale!

—AT—

GEO. DEWALD & CO.'S

We are rather in doubt as to whether it is either to our own interests or those of our customers to announce just at present another special sale, as our store has been so crowded by purchasers for the already advertised bargains in Underwear, Flannels, Blankets, Cloaks, Wool Dress Goods, etc., that many have gone away dissatisfied at having to wait so long to be served, or at not being served at all. However, we will do our best to remedy this, and as the goods are already in stock we have concluded to give notice of a

A DISASTROUS FIRE.

Cincinnati the Scene of the Greatest Conflagration the City has Ever Known.

CINCINNATI Nov. 20.—One of the most destructive fires that has occurred in a long time in Cincinnati broke out in the fourth story of the wholesale clothing house of Mack, Stadler & Co., No. 109 West Third street, immediately opposite the Burnet house. Almost immediately the flames found their way into the establishment of Marcus, Frehheimer & Co., also wholesale clothiers, adjoining on the east. These are large six story buildings in a thickly built section of the city, and with a high wind prevailing, threatened from the beginning to make a disastrous conflagration. The fire department responded promptly, and its members performed heroic work in their daring battle with the flames. The Burnet house guests were awakened and gathered at the windows facing the fiery furnace, where they watched its progress not without apprehension, but without a panic. The fire department guarded effectually against the spread of the fire to adjoining buildings. About 4 o'clock the floors gave way with some of the members of fire companies Nos. 1 and 4, who were carried to the cellar. After great difficulty they were all rescued alive. They were, Capt. Ed Halsted, seriously but not fatally injured; Capt. M. J. Higginson, of company No. 4, was also seriously injured, and Pipemen Kuhn and Buschkamp, of Company 4, were hurt but not dangerously.

The loss of Mack, Stadler & Co., and Marcus Fehheimer & Co., on goods is total and will amount to between $25,000 and $30,000 each. The buildings belonged to Henry and Herman Mack and to the Marcus Fehheimer estate. The loss on them is placed at $50,000 each. Both the buildings and stock were amply insured.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Nov. 20.—Fire was discovered about 1:30 o'clock this morning on the third floor of the hotel Belleville, Cape May point. The entire structure was destroyed, together with ten cottages, four stores and lumber yard. The loss is not yet estimated. It is supposed to be the work of an incendiary as the hotel was unoccupied.

MR. ARTHUR.

His Estate and the Preparations for His Funeral.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—General Arthur is supposed to have saved $100,000 of his salary as president. He owned real estate in this city on Sixth avenue, above Central park, also on the boulevard, the Lexington avenue residence and property at Long Branch. The total real estate and personal property is thought to be between $200,000 and $400,000. Allan and Nellie Arthur inherited from their mother property valued at about $100,000. Mr. Kneval said yesterday that he believed Mr. Arthur's will contained only private bequests. It is understood that provision is made for the appointment of a well known personal friend of Mr. Arthur as guardian for his daughter Nellie, who is about fourteen years old.

All the seven surviving members of Arthur's cabinet have been invited to act as pall bearers, and it is probable that five of his most intimate friends will be added. The members of his cabinet now living are Judge W. Q. Gresham, secretary of the treasury; Hugh McCulloch, secretary of the treasury; Robert T. Lincoln, secretary of war; W. E. Chandler, secretary of the navy; Frank Hatton, postmaster general; Henry M. Teller, secretary of the interior; Benj. Harris Brewster, attorney general.

ANOTHER CHANGE.

Mr. A. L. Griebel Transfers the Auditor's Office to Mr. J. B. Neizer.

Last evening Mr. A. L. Griebel relinquished the office of county auditor and handed the keys to his successor, Mr. J. B. Neizer. Mr. Griebel preferred to give Mr. Neizer possession and himself await a decision of the supreme court as to the legal tenure of his office, in regard which he has honest doubts. Mr. Griebel has been a good, honest, upright public servant, fearless in his duty and ever ready to act and labor for the best public interests. He leaves public life with clean hands and enjoys the respect and admiration of his fellow citizens. Happily indeed is it that he transfers the public trust into such capable hands, for Mr. Barney Niezer is a clear headed, honorable gentleman of splendid business qualifications and an established purpose to do right. THE SENTINEL predicts that Mr. Neizer will distinguish himself as an officer and it will please this paper to [illegible] he familiarizes himself with the business.

Mr. Charles McLain has always been genial and clever as chief clerk to Mr. Griebel and enjoys a thorough knowledge of the important affairs of the auditor's office. The other young gentlemen have been equally as efficient and acceptable in their departments.

THE WHEAT CROP.

The Outlook More Favorable Than in Former Years.

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 20.—C. A. King & Co., of this city, during the past four days, have received 1,200 reports from grain dealers and millers, covering nearly every important wheat county in Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and Kansas. The reports show that the wheat acreage sown this fall is a trifle larger in Ohio, Illinois, Indiana and Missouri. Kansas shows a slight decrease, and Michigan no change. The outlook for the growing crop is very favorable, and many of the reports say it never was better. Nearly half of the last crop remains in the interior, the country mills and warehouses averaging over half full. Michigan has the largest reserves, Ohio, next, while Indiana and Missouri have marketed more freely. Nearly half of the reports say the farmers are disposed to crib their corn, over one-third say they have none to spare and the remainder are disposed to sell now.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.---The weather indications are as follows:

Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana, fair weather, nearly stationary temperature.

Michigan, generally fair weather, slightly warmer.

LOCAL NEWS.

Mr. Jim Roan was to-day promoted to the position of extra passenger conductor on the Pittsburg.

Foreman Ernest Rehling, of the Wabash boiler shop, is confined to his residence by a sudden illness.

Mrs. Rev. A. Biewend, of Boston, is in the city, the guest of her parents Dr. and Mrs. Charles Schmitz.

The Wabash pay car will positively leave St. Louis next Tuesday. The employes here will not be paid before a week from Wednesday.

Miss Carrie DeWald returned from a visit to Dayton, Ohio, this afternoon. Her friend, Miss Ida Fink, accompanied her here and is her guest.

McDermut & Whiteleather received from New York to-day $100,000 in currency to be used in the practical department of their business college.

Mr. John Mohr will preside as organist at the Cathedral to-morrow morning, and the choir will render Weber's mass in G, with Flotow's "Veni Sancte."

The Literary society of the Congregational church met last night at the residence of Dr. W. B. Knapp. The attendance was large and the readings, which were mostly from Tennysor, were finely rendered. The next meeting will be held at the residence of Mr. Brooks French, on Fairfield avenue.

A large crowd attended the Salem fair last evening. Candy stand, postoffice, fish pond did the business. Little letter carriers were kept busy distributing letters. The fair may possibly be run an evening or two next week if the managers can make suitable arrangements. A fine dinner was served to-day and to-night a great crowd will be present.

Rev. H. B. Rigaway, D. D., delivered the initial lecture of the dollar course last evening, at the Wayne Street M. E. church, to an intelligent and very appreciative audience. His subject was "Richard Cobden, the British Commoner." The next lecture in the course is December 17, by J. R. Ridpath, the historian. The course will be popular.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Morris, of 39 Grand street, desire to return sincere thanks to the friends who showed so much sympathy and kindness to them in the dangerous and prolonged illness of their only child, and especial thanks are due to Father O'Leary and sisters of the Catholic faith, who went out from their own fold to act the good Samaritans. May God reward them for it. Also the neighbors, friends and physicians under whose charge and through whose care, through a divine Providence his life was spared.

A Missing Steamer Shows Up.

MANISTEE, Mich., Nov. 20.—The steam barge Manistique arrived at Frankfort, this morning, in search of her consorts, Marine and Menekaunee, lost off that port Thursday night.

As far as known no steam barge was wrecked in the vicinity of Frankfort. The schooner Libbee Nan of Chicago, is ashore on South Manitou island. A tug has gone to her assistance.

Notice is hereby given that I [illegible] this day withdrawn from the [illegible]

CARLISLE.

Why a Contest is Being Waged Against Him for Possession of His Seat—Attempt to Force Him into Opposition to the Labor Vote.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The Star says: "The fight against Carlisle means more than is seen on the surface. His name is being canvassed in connection with other posts of great honor, and the effect sought is to array the labor element of the Whole country, through one of its representatives, against him. Mr. Carlisle is a possible opponent of Mr. Beck in the senatorial contest in Kentucky, now only a little over a year off, and is considered as well by many people to possess the proper proportions for a vice-presidential candidate in the not very distant future. As a candidate, however, for either of those places, or for any place, he is handicapped by the active and organized opposition of the labor vote, and must needs fare badly in a popular contest. The hands of men like Jarrett are plainly visible in this business, and there is little doubt, indeed, that a movement is on foot, directed from under cover, to put the speaker in an attitude of opposition to labor, and to cover him, if possible, with Mr. Morrison in the condemnation of the general brotherhood of labor societies.

"Mr. Morrison, in the opinion of the Jarretts, has been done for. But there is considered yet another thrust necessary to dispatch Mr. Carlisle, and the calculation is that he will receive it in the contest which Mr. Thobe has been induced to inaugurate. It is unnecessary to add that, even if Mr. Thobe had a good case, Mr. Carlisle would not profit by fraud in any form, and there was no occasion to practice any in footing up returns which gave him on their legal face the majority he claims. There is no thought or hope, however, of seating Mr. Thobe; the point is to force Mr. Carlisle into opposition to an accredited champion of the labor movement upon a question purporting to affect the integrity of the ballot box. Out of that alone is expected to spring material sufficient to destroy the speaker as a man of influence in public affairs."

IRON ORE.

The Quality of the Metal Discovered West of Here in Miami County.

WABASH, Ind., Nov. 20.—It has been conclusively demonstrated that large quantities of iron ore exists in the vicinity of Denver, Miami county, fifteen miles northwest of this city, notwithstanding the impression that the reported discovery was a hoax. A News correspondent yesterday afternoon visited Denver and made a tour of the ore-bearing area. One mile north of Denver, along the bank of Wesaw creek, a fine vein of Alabama ore crops out for a distance of several rods. This vein is three feet thick and the ore is of excellent quality. Three miles from Denver the red ore found in the iron districts of northern Michigan is found on the surface, one field of five acres being a solid mound of iron. The territory on which iron has been discovered is, perhaps, three miles in breadth and four in length, and over this district the farmers for years have been turning up large pieces of ore without suspecting its character. Specimens have been sent Prof. E. T. Cox, ex-state geologist, and Secretary Crawford, of the Vigo Iron company, Terre Haute. From the latter, after making an examination of the specimens, a reply was received, stating that the ore was probably 40 per cent. iron, and making an offer for several car loads. A package of specimens was yesterday forwarded to Edward Orton, state geologist of Ohio, for analysis, and if his report is favorable no time will be lost in developing the "find."

A stock company with a capital of $5,000 has been formed in Denver with the following officers: President, Spencer Augur; vice president, Jacob Slappy; secretary, John E. Millison; treasurer, William Newbolt; superintendent, Smith Roy. This company has effected for a bonus of ten per cent. of the gross product the lease of 320 acres, and will at once set a force of men to work prospecting. A number of iron men from Michigan, New York and Ohio have already visited the locality and have expressed favorable opinions of the quality of the iron, and the people of Denver are sanguine of the future of the town. Land which for farming purposes before was held at $35 per acre cannot now be bought for $200, and visions of untold fortunes disturb the dreams of the staid old farmers in the neighborhood.

The Contests.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 20.—The investigation of the election frauds in this county by the federal court [illegible] continues, and will [illegible] concluded until the [illegible] the nature of found by the marshal, but this fact does not justify the statement made in the Sentinel this morning that they have probably left the city. The names were handed in to the citizens' committee, and by them to District Attorney Turpie, and there is a probability that they were incorrectly written; at least, the marshal cannot find any trace of such men. One of these is given as "A. T. Bradley," and another, William Budelers. Neither of them can be found, but there is no reason to believe that they have run away, if there are such persons.

Brewington, Knightstown; grand conductor, James M. Lang, Sullivan; grand guard, David Kuhn, Camden; grand herald, John Trachsel, Columbia City. Committee on the state of the order reported in favor of Indianapolis as the most suitable place for the location of the Colfax monument, and it will probably be placed in University park. It will cost about $12,000, and will be unveiled during the May meeting of the grand lodge in 1887, on which occasion there will be a grand parade of lodges and patriarchs militant.

Cattle Diseases in Wells County.

Dr. Pritchard, of Indianapolis, is in receipt of a letter from Dr. Fulton, health officer of Wells county, stating that cattle disease is raging to an alarming extent in the vicinity of Murray, and asking advice concerning it. Dr. P. states that the disease, sometimes known as blackleg, though very fatal among fat cattle, is not contagious, and is usually caused by change of pasturage. Lean animals are not afflicted by it. About 400 have fallen victims to it in Montgomery, Owen and Putnam counties, and others in various parts of the state. The disease is caused by blood poisoning, and is entirely distinct from pleuro-pneumonia and the affection which has been so fatal among blooded calves.

Mild weather again and everybody rejoices.

We can recommend our readers to use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup in all cases of coughs, colds, etc.

MR. TAINTOR'S new graphophone is expected to work wonders in reporting the debates of Congress. The instrument will record every word just as it is spoken, and will afterward repeat each word to the clerks, who can transcribe at their leisure.

THE late A. T. Stewart found it to his advantage to give to each head of a department of his business a percentage of the profits made in that department, in addition to a guaranteed salary. One year the head of the lace department earned $27,000, and the head of another department $29,000, the percentage being about one per cent. of the net profits in the department.

THE unluckly number figured conspicuously in the career of Richard Wagner. Born in 1813, he died after thirteen years of married life on Feb. 13. On March 13, 1861, his opera, "Tannhauser," was hissed in Paris. The number of letters forming his full name is thirteen, and his royal protector, Louis II. of Bavaria, was drowned on the 13th of June, 1886.

A MACKEREL with a collar on was a novelty caught in the black-bass trap at Gloucester, Mass. Around the fish was a rubber band such as used on preserve jars, and probably was put on there by some fisherman when the mackerel was a small tinker. The rubber band cut through the skin on the back, and if the mackerel had continued to grow the head would have been cut off by its rubber guillotine.

MR. SIMEON DUCK, of Victoria, B. C., is the seventh son of a seventh son. In 1867 he left London on the seventh day of the seventh month, and arrived in this country on the seventh day of the following month. When seeking an election to the British Columbia Parliament he was elected by seven votes, and the following year was defeated for the same office by the same number of votes.

THE network of railways of the kingdom of Saxony covers nearly five miles less in winter than in summer, a fact which Director Klauss recently proved in a lecture before the Dresden Industrial Society. It seems that a steel rail of 7½ meters in length, at a temperature of fifteen degrees Reaumer contracts eight millimeters. Saxony having 7,438,000 meters of rails, (not tracks) the contraction from cold aggregates a lotal of 7,900 meters.

CAPTAIN JOSEPH BURY, who is now living quietly at Hailey, I. T., is to be remembered for his remarkable war record. When the rebellion broke out he spent $3,000 of his own money in organizing a regiment in Ohio. He went to the front, fought all through the war, and, when mustered out, had this indorsement placed on his discharge by his commanding officer: "This officer has not been absent from his command a day during the entire war."

A CORRESPONDENT in the Macon Telegraph says: "Many years ago the writer had in charge the mail of Gen. Wigfall, which had accumulated during his duties in the field. Looking wofully at a bushel basketful of it on his return, he said: 'Throw it in the fire.' Suiting the action to the word, he threw it into the fire without opening a letter, and then added by way of explanation: 'I will work for my friends, I will spend my money for them, I will fight for them, but I won't write for them.'"

THE royal tomb in the cave under the Church of St. Michael, in Munich, in which the mortal remains of King Ludwig II. were deposited, contains at present twenty-three coffins, including those of two Bavarian Princesses—one, the daughter of Emperor Charles VII., who died at 18 years; the other, a daughter of Duke Ferdinand Maria, who died at 20 years of age. Thus far the body of the late King is only incased in an oaken coffin, richly and artistically ornamented; in a short time the wooden receptacle will be inclosed in an elaborately wrought metal one, bearing the name and crown of the happy monarch.

A DAKOTA editor made the following statement in his paper: "Times being rather hard, we are going to take our wife to the home of our mother-in-law next week for a short visit; and we will give our readers a little vacation by not issuing any paper. They won't lose much, for there is little news going just now; and we print this week an editorial on the tariff which would have appeared next week. The only thing we have had to leave out on this account is Bill Jone's ad about a farm for sale, but that is of no consequence, as he hasn't paid us anything for it yet. Brethren, white paper is too blamed dear to fool it away when our mother-in-law will keep us a week for nothing."

ONE of the curiosities of the animal kingdom is the eulachon, or candle-fish (Thaleichtys Pacificus) of the northeastern Pacific. It is about fourteen inches long, resembles the smelt in appearance, and is caught in large quantities in the early spring. It is the fattest of all known fishes, for which reason its dried and smoked flesh is highly esteemed as a warming food for winter by the Indians, by whom the oil is also drunk. So fat is the fish that when dried it burns with a bright flame until entirely consumed, forming a candle which used among the Indians of the Pacific coast. A wood-

THE Russian Minister of War, M. Vannovski, who recently attended some aeronautic experiments of the Imperial Technological Society, was amazed to notice among the spectators a military representative of the Austrian Government, and plainly expressed his dissatisfaction to the Secretary of the society. In spite of the Secretary's assurance that the experiments were of a general nature, that their results would be published, that the balloons were manufactured in Paris, and that the Austrian representative had, as a member of the society, an unquestioned right to be present, M. Vannovski was not to be pacified, and declared that he would see to it that the society received henceforth no more money from the Ministry of War for similar experiments.

A CITIZEN of Valdosta, Ga., having read the current story of a recent capture of a deer by a hook and line, writes to an Atlanta paper of an adventure with which he met several years ago. He was fishing in one of the mudholes near that place one afternoon and had poor success. Finally, as he was about to go home in disgust, he was startled by the sudden appearance of a three-foot snorting alligator, which swam rapidly in the fisherman's direction, and seemed bent on making a meal of him. The piscatorial artist soon regained his self-possession, and with an easy jerk of his fishing rod sent the hook with its dainty load within a few inches of the saurian's mouth. The reptile seized the hook and swallowed it. The lone fisherman then gave a quick jerk with the rod and the alligator was fast. Thirty minutes after this the man returned home, with the three-foot alligator and an exultant smile.

MR. STILLMAN, writing of the difficulties in the way of the exact classification of objects discovered in archæological researches, tells a curious story of the opening of a grave at Corinth. It had all the appearance of an ordinary grave of an antique Greek. In it were discovered a variety of vases and other remains of the classic time, very well preserved. But the surprise of the examiner was extreme when he discovered among the treasures a medal of Galileo, struck in the seventeenth century. This was very puzzling and it required much conjecturing to arrive at a solution of the mystery, which was this: Some enthusiastic collector, still under the influence of the former rage for the antique, must have had himself buried in the ancient style, with his treasures around him. Among them had slipped in, either by accident or design, this medal of a contemporary time. He may have had some hand in its preparation.

IT would seem, writes Labouchere, that the Prince of Wales' sons have been guilty of a very flagrant piece of plagiarism. No passage in "The Cruise of the Bacchante" has been so admirably quoted as the one written while between Barbadoes and Martinique, which begins: "We should be less than men," and ending: "But the sad memory of their useless valor," etc. It is indeed a most eloquent and effective passage, as well it may be, for it turns out to have been copied almost word for word from Charles Kingsley's charming work, "At Last," where it will be found in the second chapter. Canon Dalton allowed it to be published, without hint, happily without suspicion, of its origin. The princes, however, may console themselves under this unpleasant exposure by reflecting that they have only imitated Lord Beaconsfield, who, it may be remembered, borrowed nearly half his elaborate oration on the Duke of Wellington from a translation of a work by Thiers. It was stolen without the change of a single word. These royal authors have plundered Canon Kingsley in much about the same fashion.

PROF. RUDOLF VIRCHOW, the learned surgeon and physicist, has lately prepared some interesting tables concerning the color of the hair, eyes, and skin among the German school children. Six million seven hundred and fifty-eight thousand eight hundred and twenty-seven pupils were examined, being nearly four-fifths of all the youth of "A B C" age. Of these 2,149,027—31.08 per cent.—belonged to the blonde type; 949,822—14.05 per cent.—to the brunette, and 3,659,978—54.15 per cent.—to the blonde-brunette or mixed type, distinctly showing that more than one-half of the entire number are in the latter category, two-thirds of the remaining 46 per cent. being blondes. The territorial division of the principal types corresponds accurately to the geographical boundaries of North, South, and Middle Germany: 43.3—36 per cent.—of the pure blondes being found in the northern districts, 32.5—28.3 per cent.—in the middle, and 24.5—18 per cent.—in the southern ones. The River Main thus becomes an anthropological line of significance. In general, the further south one goes the more brunettes he meets—South Bavaria mustering but 14 per cent. blondes. Among the 75,376 Hebrew children the mixed type predominates also, the pure brunettes outnumbering the pure blondes, however, three-fold. Whereas the relation of the blondes to the brunettes among the Christians is 31.8 to 14, that among the Jewish children is as 11.29 to 42. The gray-eyed and dark-haired predominate in the mixed type. Many other results were brought to light, of more interest, however, to Germans than to the world at large. Prof. Virchow has devoted years to study of [illegible]

ST. PAUL Globe: "Did you go to the cemetery?" asked Mrs. Dutiful to Mrs. Funeralgoer, referring to a recent funeral in the neighborhood. "Yes," replied the person addressed. "How natural he looked," exclaimed the first speaker. "Just as if he was asleep." "I hardly noticed anything. I never enjoyed myself less in my life." "Why, what was the matter?" "Well, it looked very much as though we would have a wind storm, and I left the windows open at home, and I was so afraid it would rain and spoil my new carpet that I did not enjoy the funeral as I should have done."

THE annual report of the inspector of fisheries for England and Wales, says London Truth, contains some interesting information about the supply of eels. It seems that last year the consignment of these savory and nutritious fish from Holland to Billingsgate exceeded 1,000 tons, the money value being about £85,000. There is also an importation of eels from Germany, averaging 20,000 pounds every week. Ireland sends nearly 500 tons of eels to England every year, and Scotland sends 30 tons. The consumption of eels in London and its suburbs averages 1,650 tons a year, and is worth about £135,000. It is added that hardly any English eels find their way to London, a fact which metropolitan consumers have reason to deplore, as they are unsurpassed for richness and delicacy of flavor. The very best eels are those of the Kennet, Test, and Hants Avon. There is an inn at Romsey where they cook the Testfish to perfection.

A GENTLEMAN who owns a big clothing store, says the New York Times, was applied to by a young negro man for employment. There was a good deal of ambition in the young fellow, for he asked for a clerkship. He had a fair education, was quick in figures, and was blessed with a tongue that knew no halting. He didn't get the post of the salesman that he wanted, but was hired to play the part of a general utility man in the establishment at $6 a week. He did up bundles, ran errands, swept the floors—did general menial service. But he didn't complain. One day three or four weeks ago he approached the proprietor with a new proposition. "I suppose," said he, "that you've got no objection to my drumming up a little trade?" The merchant smiled, perhaps a little sarcastically, and assured the young man that he might drum to his heart's content. "And what's the commission?" quoth the business-like young man. The proprietor, amused, named a very liberal percentage. Before the week was over somebody else had to be hired to do the errand-running and other things in the general-utility line. The young black man had time only to receive his friends and show them the store's line of goods. In a moment he had developed into a full-blown salesman. His commissions on actual sales amounted for the first week to over $30. The next week they were twice that. The proprietor's eyes were wider open than ever they dared peep before. Such push and enterprise, such successes, were amazing from such a source. But he had made a good bargain and he sticks to it. Some of the white clerks objected a little at first, but that sort of prejudice is over now, and ex-errand boy brunette has been put on a salary that would make the heart of many a pale-skinned college graduate beat a little curiously.

COMING OF CHRIST.

Important Christian Meeting in Session at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—Notwithstanding the severe weather during the past two days, much interest has been manifested in the meetings and large crowds are in attendance. The main topic is "The Second Coming of Christ," and the remarks are of a very high standard. Rev. J. M. Orrock, editor of Messiah's Herald, Boston, in his remarks said: "There are some who hold that the Lord may come to-day; there are perhaps more of us who hold that He will come soon; but all of us are agreed that when He does come it will be before the millenium. It is a proper and reverent position occupied by those who are waiting, watching and working in the blessed hope of the second coming of our Lord. Many look for the world's conversion before the Lord should come. 'John Knox, of Scotland, cried out: 'There is no final rest to the whole body till the head return to judgment.' (Sermon on Isaiah, 26.) Calvin said: 'There is no reason why any person should expect the conversion of the world: for when it is too late and will yield them no advantage, they shall look on Him whom they have pierced.' (Institutes, Book, 3, chapter 9.) Luther, the great German, said in his comments on John x, 16: 'Some in explaining this passage, 'Other sheep I have,' say that before the latter days the whole world shall become Christians. This is a falsehood forged by Satan that he might darken sound doctrine, that we might not rightfully understand it. Beware therefore of this delusion.'"

His entire address was very fine, and seemed to bring his Christian hearers closer to Christ, causing a feeling that the second coming of Christ might be very soon. He made his hearers feel how little they are doing for Christ, since he has done so much for them. He urged them to be active in Christian work. Do not be idle or indifferent. Some ministers do much harm to their people and church by refusing to be active and conduc[illegible] They want a [illegible] light. [illegible]

early movement of Wesley and Whitefield was not very far removed from fanaticism. I do not sympathize with undue excitement, but I believe that people of ardent temperament are apt to get excited over other things than religion. If it must be, I should rather be tied to a man that had fits occasionally than to a dead man. I prefer the bustle of an active world to the stillness of a swamp. Give me the excitement of the living tree rather than the quietude of a petrified stump. A living dog is better than a dead lion.

George a Free Trader, Pure and Absolute.

[Boston Transcript.]

Here follows a little epistle from Henry George to a Connecticut friend, which is worthy of being placed on record:

NEW YORK, Oct. 12, 1886.—I am a free trader, pure and absolute, and regard protection as a fraud on workingmen. If I were a citizen of Connecticut I would sign your cirnular or do anything I could to show the workers how they are humbugged by a tariff which, while protecting favored capitalists and land-owners, leaves them free to grind the faces of their employes.

Yours truly,
HENRY GEORGE.

Should Sudden serious illness overtake you, be prepared in time, by keeping at hand a bottle of Pond's Extract. For all inflammation or hemorrhage, used internally or externally, it is the greatest known remedy. Some families have used it so long, and have such faith in it, that for such illness they say, "Take some of Pond's Extract," or for a hurt or accident, "Put some of Pond's Extract on it," as naturally as one says "good morning." Refuse any spurious imitation.

The recount for auditor of Tippecanoe county, gave Barnes, (dem.,) an increase of fifteen votes, making his majority sixty-five.

In the Dear Old Days.

We differ in creed and politics, but we are a unit all the same on the desirableness of a fine head of hair. If you mourn the loss oft his blessing and ornament, a bottle or two of Parker's Hair Balsam will make you look as you did in the dear old days. It is worth trying. It is the only standard 50c article for the hair.

Card of Thanks to the Friends and Patrons of Joseph Biechle, Canton, Ohio.

I have sold my soaps in the City of Fort Wayne and surrounding towns longer than any manufacturer in this country, and have always tried to please. The sale of my soaps to the good citizens show that the good quality of my soaps are appreciated better than all others. I always sell honest goods at reasonable prices to put them in the reach of the poor as well as the rich. Thanking you for the liberal patronage bestowed upon me and awaiting the same for the future, I remain very truly yours, JOS. BIECHLE.

"UNCLE REMUS."

The True Story of Joel Chandler Harris, Dialect Author.

It is a pity to disturb the romantic tale that has gone about the country in reference to this popular writer. But the truth is, he was not born in Africa, but in Putnam county, Ga. He isn't a great Hebrew and Sanscrit scholar either, but just a talented American boy, who never went to school anywhere enough to spoil him. Neither did his sweetheart die of yellow fever and leave him alone with his grief and a head of snow white hair. His hair is not white with grief, but is thick, strong and stubby, and a good, honest red. His first work for the public was in a shanty printing office in the woods.

JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS.

But the shanty printing office was burned during Sherman's march to the sea. Then young Harris went to Savannah, thence to Atlanta. Like Artemus Ward, this later genuine American humorist began life a printer. He was a reporter on The Atlanta Constitution when he wrote the first Uncle Remus sketch. It struck the note of success. The Uncle Remus stories are a lasting part of American literature as much as Burns' poetry is a part of Scotch life and history.

It is pleasant to know, too, that he did not invent the plantation stories and sketches, but that they are genuinely what they assume to be. Mr. Harris has gathered up the negro folk lore of the south and preserved it in permanent form. Only for him many choice and quaint treasures of literature would have been lost.

The best known of the sketches is the strange and striking legend of "Brer Fox and the Tar Baby and Brer Rabbit." Mr. Harris is 40 years old, a delightful friend and a hard worker in literature and journalism. The Century magazine now publishes his productions in advance of their appearance elsewhere.

FORTY YEARS IN ONE PULPIT.

Rev Dr. R. S. Storrs and His Long Pastorate.

On Nov. 19, forty years ago, Rev. R. S. Storrs was installed as pastor of the Church of the Pilgrims in Brooklyn, N. Y. The population of that city was then 60,000; it is now approaching 1,000,000. His church was the pioneer Congregational church in that city, antedating Mr. Beecher's church by two years. The stone edifice completed in 1864 was considered very extravagant in those days. And true to the name which the church adopted, it inserted a fragment of the veritable rock on which the "forefathers" landed, in the front of the building, like the famous Blarney stone in the castle of that name.

REV. DR. R. S. STORRS.

Dr. Storrs is the fourth of a line of clergymen representing as many generations. His father was for sixty years pastor of a church in Braintree, Mass., where Dr. Storrs was born in 1821. Dr. Storrs graduated from Amherst college in 1839, five years after Mr. Beecher. In 1848 Dr. Storrs with Dr. Leonard Bacon and Dr. Joseph P. Thompson founded The Independent, which he edited until 1861. In 1881 Dr. Storrs had completed the thirty-fifth year of his pastorate, on which occasion his congregation presented him with a purse of $35,000, $1,000 for each year. In person Dr. Storrs is large, tall, stately; in manners dignified and polite; in intercourse, to his tried and trusted friends, cordial; and in social life genial, and often witty and humorous. For many years Dr. Storrs delivered his sermons from the manuscript, but a few years ago he laid aside the written sermon and since that time he has practised and advocated preaching without notes, having published a book on the subject.

The Late Fred Archer.

The death of Fred Archer, the famous jockey, is looked upon as a national calamity in England. Few British statesmen would have excited the regret at their taking away that this horseman did. Witness the condolences that poured in on his sister after the occurrence from the aristocracy, even to the very throne, and the day of his funeral at Newmarket business was suspended and the whole place thrown into mourning. It shows the peculiar interest Englishmen take in their national sport and the affection which they have for those who are promoters of it. When Archer came to America a couple of years ago he was surprised that he did not receive the same homage here he was accustomed to. Archer had not yet reached his 30th year, still he had accumulated a fortune of over $500,000 as a jockey. He always backed the horse he rode, and he would not ride other than a good horse. Of late years he had his choice, which accounts largely for his success. During the last six years of his life he came in a winner 1,269 times. He received besides his legitimate earnings large purses from his admirers. Mr. Lorillard presented him with $5,000 on the occasion of his winning the Derby on Iroquois in 1881. Archer was 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighed 118 pounds; his legs were remarkably supple and wiry, he could wind them around a horse's body when it was impossible to unseat him. But then he possessed remarkable nerve and a quick judgment, without which his calliper legs would have been of no avail.

DARING DONAVAN,

Who Jumped From Niagara's High Bridge 200 Feet to the Rapids.

What is the end of fame? 'tis but to fill
A certain portion of the daily paper;
Some liken it to climbing on a bridge
To jump and splash, then all is lost in vapor.

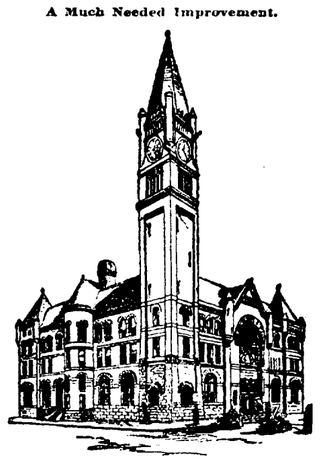

So Byron might have written were he with us now, for the most famous man on the 8th of November was Lawrence M. Donovan, whose exploit of jumping from the Niagara suspension bridge, 200 feet to the icy rapids below, filled the most important place in the papers of that date. It was a foolhardy act, but the man who dared the accomplishment of it is entitled to all the little fame he receives for his courage. For it appears that his motive is meritorious enough—the bettering of the fortunes of his aged father and mother and two sisters, who are depending on him for support. Nature gifted Donovan with the faculty of determination, as will be remarked in his portrait. At his work as a pressman's assistant in a newspaper office he could earn scarcely a bare living. So he determined on making himself famous and thus bettering his chances in life. He is a temperate young man of 24, and taking a few of his companions into his confidence he proceeds deliberately to practice for such feats as this by jumping from High bridge, on the Harlem river, New York, to the water. This he did successfully four times. Then he surprised all New York one morning by jumping from the great Brooklyn bridge, 135 feet, to the water. To do this he had to keep his purpose a secret from his parents and elude the police, who are stationed on the bridge to prevent just such occurrences. His coolness and determination overcame the obstacles.

L. M. DONOVAN.

Lates he went to Rochester for the purpose of making the jump at the Genessee falls, wherein Sam Patch lost his life. He was prevented from doing this. But his last feat at Niagara eclipses anything of the kind ever attempted. At 7 o'clock one chilly morning he climbs up on the iron railing of the great Suspension bridge, knocks some ice from under his feet to secure a firm footing and at the signal of a pistol shot he springs into the air. In four seconds he strikes the icy rapids, 200 feet below. He is kept under by the current, to come to the surface about sixty feet from where he struck the water. The shock of striking the water breaks one of his ribs and renders him insensible, but he is rescued and resuscitated. While the doctor is bandaging him he decides that he has "tempted Providence long enough and that he has made his last jump." It is to be hoped that he may be as determined in this resolution as in others, for his bravery is deserving of a worthier cause!

A Much Needed Improvement.

THE NEW UNION DEPOT, INDIANAPOLIS.

Indianapolis is at last promised a new depot. It will be one "long felt want" filled; at least for years citizens and travelers have complained of the smoky structure that was used by the thirteen railroads that deposited and received passengers there. All recognized the necessity for a new structure, but the rival interests could not agree until now. The railroads appear to be determined to make up for their past neglect, for this new depot will be one of which the Hoozier capital will have cause to be proud. The plans have just been accepted, and our illustration gives a very good idea of its proposed external appearance.

The First Keen Twinge.

As the season advances the pains and aches by which rheumatism makes itself known, are experienced after every exposure. It is not claimed that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a specific for rheumatism—we doubt if there is, or can be, such a remedy. But the thousands benefitted by Hood's Sarsaparilla, warrant us in urging others who suffer from rheumatism to take it before the first keen twinge.

When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

The new attorney general will go into office on the 22nd. Mr. Michener will retain Mr. Will Hord as deputy until the ways of the place are learned.

Food for Consumptives.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites is a most wonderful remedy. It not only gives strength and increases the flesh but heals the irritation of the throat and lungs. Palatable as milk, and in all wasting diseases, both for adults and children, is a marvelous food and medicine.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferers at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub wakes as "bright as a button." It is [illegible]

THE advance in war machinery, material, and weapons of every description makes a different mode of warfare necessary, said Gen. Phil Sheridan to a Chicago News reporter. Armies will not attack each other in the field like this. An army must be dug out, starved out, or may be forced out by position. At all events, we must have one of two things—either a long, tedious method, wearing alike on men and the impedimenta, or a rapid and vigorous attack upon real property, commerce, railroad, steamboat. What is naval warfare? Simply a war on commerce. Effective? Very. Why not the same on land? There is little doubt that the horse must play a larger part in future wars than anything we saw or heard of. And I am not sure but what this is the humanitarian view. We should certainly save life, and lives of human beings should always be preserved at the expense of real property. I think I am right in this. Anything that shortens a war, stops the conflict, is desirable. Of course we should have bitter fighting at points; that would be necessary. But a war to-day would be a new thing.

To the Cuticura Remidies I Owe My Health, My Happiness, and My Life.

A day never passes that I do not think and speak kindly of the Cuticura Remedies. Seven years ago, all of a dozen lumps formed on my neck, ranging in size from a cherry stone to an orange. The large ones were frightful to look at, and painful to bear; people turned aside when they saw me, in disgust, and I was ashamed to be on the street or in society. Physicians and their treatment, and all medicines failed to do any good. In a moment of despair I tried the Cuticura Remedies—Cuticura, the great skin cure, and Cuticura Soap, an exquisite skin beautifier, externally, and Cuticura Resolvent, the new blood purifier, internally; the small lumps (as I call them) gradually disappeared, and the large ones broke, in about two weeks, discharging large quantities of matter, leaving two slight scars in my neck to-day to tell the story of my suffering. My weight then was one hundred and fifteen sickly pounds; my weight now is one hundred and sixty-one solid, healthy pounds, and my height is only five feet five inches. In my travels I praised the Cuticura Remedies, North, South, East and West. To Cuticura Remedies I owe my health, my happiness, and my life. A prominent New York druggist ask me the other day, "Do you still use the Cuticura Remedies; you look to be in perfect health?" My reply was, "I do, and shall always. I have never known what sickness is since I commenced using the Cuticura Remedies." Sometimes I am laughed at by praising them to people not acquainted with their merits, but sooner or later they will come to their senses and believe the same as those that use them, as dozens have whom I have told. May the time come when there shall be a large Cuticura supply house in every city in the world, for the benefit of humanity, where the Cuticura Remedies shall be sold only, so there will be rarely a need of ever entering a drug store.

Sneezing Catarrh

The distressing sneeze, sneeze, sneeze, the acrid, watery discharges from the eyes and nose, the painful inflammation extending to the throat, the swelling of the mucous lining, causing choking sensations, coughs, ringing noises in the head and splitting headaches—how familiar these symptoms are to thousands who suffer periodically from head colds or influenza, and who live in ignorance of the fact that a single application of Sanford's Radical Cure for Catarrh will afford instantaneous relief.

But this treatment in cases of simple catarrh gives but a faint idea of what this remedy will do in the chronic forms, where the breathing is obstructed by choking, putrid mucous accummulations, the hearing affected, smell and taste gone, throat ulcerated and hacking cough gradually fastening itself upon the debilitated system. Then it is that the marvelous curative power of Sanford's Radical Cure manifests itself in instantaneous and grateful relief. Cure begins from the first application. It is rapid, radical, permanent, economical, safe.

Catarrh in the Head

Catarrh is inflammation of the mucous membrane, attended with increased secretion. Thus catarrh may affect the head, throat, stomach, bowels, or any part of the body where the mucous membrane is found. But catarrh of the head is by far the most common, coming on so gradually that often its presence is not suspected till it has obtained a firm hold on its victim. It is caused by a cold, or a succession of colds, combined with

Impure Blood.

When firmly established the disease is exceedingly disagreeable, causing flow from the nose, dryness of the throat, headache, loss of appetite, roaring and buzzing noises in the ears, etc. In Hood's Sarsaparilla may be found a prompt and permanent cure for catarrh. It purifies and enriches the blood, soothes and rebuilds the diseased membrane, and thus soon cures the disease. At the same time it refreshes and tones the whole system. The remarkable success of this peculiar medicine entitles it to your confidence. Give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

"I am happy to state that I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, with which I have been troubled many years, and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head. The effort to clear my head in the morning by hawking and spitting was painful. My grocer advised me to try and it gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without the medicine in my house, as I think it is worth its weight in gold." MRS. G. B. GIBB, 1029 Eighth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

"I have used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh with very satisfactory results. I have received more permanent benefit from it than from any other remedy I have ever tried." M. E. READ, of A. Read & Son, Wanseon, Ohio.

SATURDAY NOV. 20. 1886.

THE CITY NEWS.

Supt. C. D. Law went to Chicago this morning.

Ada Gray in "A Ring of Iron" at the Temple Monday evening.

Extra fine fur collars and cuffs for overcoats, at Sam, Pete & Max.

The box sheet for Ada Gray in "A Ring of Iron" opened this morning.

Astrachan Reefing coats and vests "very too too," at Sam, Pete & Max.

Mr. C. S. Blackman, traveling agent of the Union Pacific road, is in the city.

Natty double-breasted chincilla coats and vests for boys, at Sam, Pete & Max.

You have never seen such a line of gent's mufflers as shows by Sam, Pete & Max.

Miss Emma Long, of the telephone exchange, left for Dayton, Ohio, to-day to reside.

Mr. J. Y. Calahan, traveling passenger agent of the Nickel Plate, was in the city yesterday.

Last night Mike Wickliffe and Gus Lannan had a bloody fight on East Columbia street.

Superintendent Wood, of the Pittsburg motive power department, returned from the east this morning.

The school board has purchased one of Henry T. Miller's grand pianos for the grammar school from C. L. Hill.

If you want to see who is doing the business, and the best stock of clothing in the state, drop in on Sam, Pete & Max.

The Gazette's criticism of the Temple management is too fresh to indulge in any of its elaborate eulogies just yet awhile.

Mr. S. W. Wass, of Monroeville, Ind., drew the fine Gendron bicycle, one of the leading prizes offered by Sam, Pete & Max.

On the 27th inst. Theodore Stephenson will sell at public auction all of his personal property at his residence, out on the Ridge road.

Ladies and town people are advised to do their trading before evening, Saturday, to avoid the rush. Come early and oblige Sam, Pete & Max.

Gart Shober will resume his place as city editor of the Journal to-night. Mr. George Benson has been doing acceptable work in that department since Mr. Shober's illness.

Mr. M. Koch, of the Star Clothing House, left for New York yesterday. The trade of this noted firm exceeds by far anything in its history. Look out for the boss line of holiday specialties and clothing novelties.

Hon. Henry Monning, of this city, attended the Iroquois club banquet, at Chicago, and sat to a feast with the great democratic statesmen of the nation. Mr. Monning is always an invited guest at these feasts.

Last evening at the Fort Wayne college the Thalonian society fairly eclipsed their own splendid record. The large and select audience was immensely pleased and left wishing that the evening had been twice as long. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend on next Friday evening.

A fine black team of horses, the property of the Concordia college, stood untied on East Main street, this morning, and ran away before the driver could emerge from a store. They dashed eastward and at Barr street ran into a water hydrant on the sidewalk, smashing the wagon into bits and liberating themselves. The animals were afterward captured.

Judge Chapin has appointed a young man named John Hall as bailiff of the superior court. It would have been better and more in accordance with the civil service the judge spoke of during the campaign to continue the gentlemanly and courteous John Daily in that place. The Sentinel [illegible] the propriety of his retention to Judge Chapin, who was elected by [illegible]

The Nickel Plate men were paid yesterday.

Harry Templar, of the Pittsburg, was yesterday admitted to full citizenship.

Harry Jarrard, a Fort Wayne photographer, has opened a gallery at Huntington.

The three remaining children of J. N. Stein, of Hanna street, are recovering from diphtheria.

John A. Maier, ex-deputy county clerk, will devote his attention to giving lessons on the guitar.

Editor James Mitchell has removed the office of the Dispatch to its former place in the Swinney block.

The provoke case of the state of Indiana on relation of John A. Scott against Charles B. Woodworth was yesterday dismissed.

The Decatur Democrat says: "Miss Minnie Thompson, of Fort Wayne, has been the guest of Miss Callie Rout for a few days past."

The venerable Wm. Lewis, of 81 Wells street, is dying of old age. He is now eighty-four years of age and has lived here since 1854. He is the father of Mrs. Wm. Miller.

Col. R. S. Robertson has also been retained in connection with the firm of Colerick & Oppenheim to assist in the prosecution of Scott Swann for shooting Dr. J. W. Younge.

Captain Myers, secretary of state, upon leaving his present office will take to the lecture field. He has been "feeling" of this field for some months and has met with success.

Robert Simonton and John I. Dille, the chairman and secretary of the Huntington county republican central committee were presented with gold headed canes engraved in memory of the late campaign. Here the republican chairman and secretary were criticised by the republican press.

The Fort Wayne and Decatur gravel road, running off of South Calhoun street, is finished and toll gates are established to collect money from travelers. President Will McKinnie drove over his thoroughfare yesterday and farmers and plump milk maids gave the young agriculturalist a great reception.

A grand prize hunt between Captains Diggins and Kelly, with twenty picked men each, will take place next Thursday near Kendallville. The game is to be owls, foxes, hawks, woodchucks, chipmucks, crows and blackbirds. Bear, wolf and wildcats are excluded, and no credit will be given for these, we understand.

Colonel Briant's old war horse "Pat," died last Friday afternoon, at Huntington, at the ripe age of twenty-nine years. On Saturday the animal was buried on the farm of Mr. Briant, where he died. "Pat" was captured from the confederates January 3, 1864, near Charleston, Tenn. Colonel Briant rode the horse in a sham battle here two years ago.

The offer of Rev. Wilkinson, of Rome City, to take his next quarter's salary all in pie, is creating a sensation and will make the ladies stare, as it will in all probability exceed in size the one made at Denbydale, Yorkshire, England, on August 27, 1846, which was seven yards in circumference, containing among other things, five sheep and fifteen rabbits.

At Indianapolis the mayor and chief of police propose to close all saloons on Sunday and at 11 o'clock at night. THE SENTINEL honestly agrees with the News that similar enforcements should be enacted here—not by the reform league, but by the officers who are elected and appointed, and whose sworn duty it is to see that all laws are observed. If the enforcement was made general in this city THE SENTINEL believes every liquor dealer would appreciate it and acquiesce. At any rate laws were made to observe, not to violate and ignore, and tax papers will insist on action pretty soon.

The Indianapolis News says of the great actor to be here next Wednesday: "Emmet played to a big house at the Grand last night. Emmet always plays to big houses in Indianapolis, regardless of his play or his support. Little fault is to be found with either this time. 'Fritz,' as now put upon the stage, is a very pleasing piece, and of course Emmet as Fritz is beyond criticism. He looks better, sings better and acts better than he has done for years. His ballads, of which there are about a dozen, always calls for en cores. Several of them are new and taking. His leading support is good, including the little children and Mr. Emmet's $3,000 St. Bernard dog."

Mrs. Will Tigar is at home after a visit at Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dreier have returned from Chicago.

Eleven cases of typhoid fever are recorded at Monroeville.

The Geneva Enterprise appears for the last time this week.

Hon. and Mrs. Charles McCulloch will go to Washington, D. C., to-morrow night.

J. M. Hatfield, M. P. Emley and A. D. Mohler, of Huntington, were in the city last night.

The M. E. college societies gave interesting and instructive entertainments last night to their classmates and friends.

Standard whistles—the Barnes patent—are being placed on all the Wabash locomotives—No. 5 for passenger and No. 6 for freight engines.

Twelve salesmen are now employed at Sam, Pete & Max's, and still that force is unable to handle the rush, so an extra number will be put on at once.

Mr. C. A. McDonald, city editor of the South Bend Times, was married at Berrien Springs, Mich., on Wednesday evening last, to Miss Fannie E. Bradley.

The Monroeville Breeze says: "Miss Mary Willard, of Fort Wayne, attended the cracker bon-bon social at the residence of her sister, Mrs. C. S. Ridenour, Friday evening last."

Engineer Glenn has resumed his regular place on Wabash passenger locomotive 1184 and will continue in the service of the road until April, when he will enter upon the duties of county clerk, at Huntington.

Here is an illustration of what building and loan associations will do for a town. An exchange says that five hundred new houses will be built in Indianapolis next season by building and loan association money.

Dan Green, formerly a brakeman on Wabash through freight between Andrews and Toledo, and also on the local run between Fort Wayne and Toledo, is conducting a meat market at his home in South Toledo, Ohio, and is doing a prosperous business.

A Monroe correspondent says: "That there is some enterprise in our little city is evidenced by the fact that a resident of Monroeville, Ind., recently bought the Charles Munson property. He proposes starting saloon number two. Our people will object in the way of a remonstrance."

The Huntington News-Express says: "Master Mechanic Morris, of Fort Wayne, was at the Andrews round house Wednesday. He had just been over the eastern division of the Wabash with the railway officials, and reports the road bed and rolling stock in the best condition known for years."

The city council will meet next Tuesday evening in regular session. The Electric street railroad ordinance again comes up and public sentiment is against letting that line cross every public street in the city with its unsightly poles, arms and wires extending along the proposed route of the experimental affair.

The Andrews correspondent of the Huntington News-Express says: "Conductor C. E. Brinsley has been granted an indefinite leave of absence and is in Fort Wayne attending to his father (J. C. Brinsley's) interest in a feed yard in that city, that gentlemen being sick and not able to look after the business. Conductor Ed. Keys is in charge of Brinsley's crew during this time."

The Grand Rapids and Indiana railroad is experimenting with a new patent electric alarm, to be used as a safeguard at dangerous railroad crossings. About a quarter of a mile from the crossing, on the railroad, is an iron dog, and trains running over it strike a gong at the crossing, which gives passing teams half a minute's warning that a train is approaching. The invention is as yet simply an experiment, but if it proves a success it will be placed at dangerous crossings along the road.

Over thirty years ago the Grand Masonic lodge of Indiana passed a stringent edict against saloons and the liquor traffic generally among the members of the fraternities in this state, since which time that edict has been generally enforced by several lodges throughout the jurisdiction, so that now a saloon or liquor shop kept by a Mason is not perhaps to be found in the state. A very large number of the grand lodges in the United States soon followed Indiana in enforcing a similar edict among their subordinates.

Mr. and Mrs. John Monahan have a very sick child.

Miss Mettie Billson, of Cleveland, is the guest of Mrs. Cas Hunter.

The "Witch of Denver" has opened a prophetic establishment on East Mark street.

Hon. W. G. Colerick was recently counsel in a contested election case at Auburn.

Mr. G. W. Doswell, the landscape gardener, is preparing plans to beautify the Hayden park.

On Thursday, the 25th inst., the 100th regiment of Indiana volunteers will hold a reunion at Kendallville.

Mr. E. F. Yarnelle and Mr. W. H. Stickler were initiated into the mysteries of the Royal Arcanum last evening.

We regret very much to hear that Mr. E. P. Williams is ill at Chicago. The gentleman proposes to reside here this winter.

Mrs. Alice Griffin, department president of the G. A. R. Women's Relief corps of Indiana, is in the city, the guest of Mrs. Frank Weldon.

Hon. Ed. O'Rourke gave Theodore Mayer judgment against Charles Morh for $123.83, and Wm. Schoppman was admitted to citizenship.

There is a movement here to organize an independent lodge of Scottish rite masons, growing out of a controversy in the Ohio commandery.

Mrs. Geo. H. Wilson is at Akron, O., attending the funeral of her brother, Hon. W. T. Allen, who was ex-mayor of Akron and a prominent citizen.

Mr. and Mrs H. B. Rowlson, Hillsdale, Mich., Dr. I. E. Lyons, Huntington; Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Porter, Decatur, are guests of the Aveline house.

Rev. T. J. Butler, D. D., of Chicago, will preach at the Cathedral to-morrow at high mass. The reverend gentleman is a great pulpit orator and eminent divine.

Annie Cull was arrested by Sheriff Nelson to-day for stealing a pair of earrings from Miss Louisa Merriotte. Justice France sent the unfortunate woman to jail.

Mollie Russ, Katie Edkin and a fellow named Riley were arrested last night in a room at 301 South Calhoun street, and Mayor Muhler committed the trio to jail in default of cash.

John Gumbert and Elizabeth Pepler, Daniel W. Winebrenner and Ida Johnson, Henry Tonsing and Anna Scharberger have been licensed to wed by the genial Dr. Geo. W. Loag.

The Pittsburg machine shops were closed yesterday by a break in the machinery caused by the night force in shutting down. All departments were in operation to-day.

The Berry Street M. E. church will hold a fair and festival in the new White building, corner Calhoun and Wayne streets, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of next week. A special Thanksgiving dinner will be given on Thursday, to which all are cordially invited.

Hon. Andy Ellison threatens to have Postmaster Frank Snyder removed from office at Lagrange by pushing a suit against him for not delivering the democratic mail to a mugwump chairman up there. A delegation from Fort Wayne will go to Washington to back Mr. Snyder if he is injured because of his politics.

Geo. Chapman, of Walkerton, Ind., a former resident of Pleasant township, this county, who has been visiting relatives here, returned home this afternoon. Mr. Chapman is the superintendent-elect of the St. Joe county infirmary and will take charge of that institution December 1.

The Lagrange Democrat says: "We have it from good authority that Dr. Parker has not retired from the Kendallville News at all, and that the pretended lease of it to two of Parker's employes is a ruse to recover its business under cover of the good name borne by young men who are known to be good democrats."

The Wabash Plain Dealer says: "In the case of the state of Indiana ex rel. Sutton et al. vs. the Board of County Commissioners, seeking an order in the circuit court to compel the board of county commissioners by madnamus to proceed with the construction of the range line free gravel road, the court today, Judge Morris, of Fort Wayne, on the bench, sustained plaintiff's demurrers to all paragraphs of defendant's answers except one and two, from which it would seem that the road would in time have to be constructed by the defendant."

The railroads all announce cheap rates for Thanksgiving travelers.

The 12th regiment infantry volunteers will hold its first reunion since the war at Warsaw, Nov. 25.

Ada Gray will star in a "Ring of Iron" at the Temple Monday night. Ada is rather attractive.

Rev. Father Hartman, for several years pastor of the Catholic church at Arcola who for a year past has been in poor health, is visiting in the city much improved physically.

Wade Shoaff, agent for John Wannamaker, the great Philadelphia clothier and tailor, has taken rooms in the second floor of White's new building, corner of Calhoun and Wayne streets.

Mr. Mason Long, George Pixley, Root & Co., and all the property owners on East Berry street, between Clinton and Calhoun, will petition the council to have the sidewalk on the south side of the street made twelve feet wide to facilitate business and travel.

The Indiana Woman's Suffrage association, in session at Richmond, adjourned to meet at Kendallville next year. In adopting the report of the committee on plan of work it was concluded to be especially zealous in an effort to obtain municipal suffrage for women from the next legislature.

In mining districts Salvation Oil is regarded as an indispensible necessity. Miners will have it.

Life is but short, and we should do all we can to prolong it. Check a cough or cold at once by using the old reliable remedy, Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

Special Sale!

—A'T—

GEO. DEWALD & CO.'S

We are rather in doubt as to whether it is either to our own interests or those of our customers to announce just at present another special sale, as our store has been so crowded by purchasers for the already advertised bargains in Underwear, Flannels, Blankets, Cloaks, Wool Dress Goods, etc., that many have gone away dissatisfied at having to wait so long to be served, or at not being served at all. However, we will do our best to remedy this, and as the goods are already in stock we have concluded to give notice of a

GEORGE DEWALD & CO.

A DISASTROUS FIRE.

Cincinnati the Scene of the Greatest Conflagration the City has Ever Known.

CINCINNATI Nov. 20.—One of the most destructive fires that has occurred in a long time in Cincinnati broke out in the fourth story of the wholesale clothing house of Mack, Stadler & Co., No. 109 West Third street, immediately opposite the Burnet house. Almost immediately the flames found their way into the establishment of Marcus, Frehheimer & Co., also wholesale clothiers, adjoining on the east. These are large six story buildings in a thickly built section of the city, and with a high wind prevailing, threatened from the beginning to make a disastrous conflagration. The fire department responded promptly, and its members performed heroic work in their daring battle with the flames. The Burnet house guests were awakened and gathered at the windows facing the fiery furnace, where they watched its progress not without apprehension, but without a panic. The fire department guarded effectually against the spread of the fire to adjoining buildings. About 4 o'clock the floors gave way with some of the members of fire companies Nos. 1 and 4, who were carried to the cellar. After great difficulty they were all rescued alive. They were, Capt. Ed Halsted, seriously but not fatally injured; Capt. M. J. Higginson, of company No. 4, was also seriously injured, and Pipemen Kuhn and Buschkamp, of Company 4, were hurt but not dangerously.

The loss of Mack, Stadler & Co., and Marcus Fehheimer & Co., on goods is total and will amount to between $25,000 and $30,000 each. The buildings belonged to Henry and Herman Mack and to the Marcus Fehheimer estate. The loss on them is placed at $50,000 each. Both the buildings and stock were amply insured.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Nov. 20.—Fire was discovered about 1:30 o'clock this morning on the third floor of the hotel Belleville, Cape May point. The entire structure was destroyed, together with ten cottages, four stores and lumber yard. The loss is not yet estimated. It is supposed to be the work of an incendiary as the hotel was unoccupied.

MR. ARTHUR.

His Estate and the Preparations for His Funeral.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—General Arthur is supposed to have saved $100,000 of his salary as president. He owned real estate in this city on Sixth avenue, above Central park, also on the boulevard, the Lexington avenue residence, and property at Long Branch. The total real estate and personal property is thought to be between $200,000 and $400,000. Allen and Nellie Arthur inherited from their mother property valued at about $100,000. Mr. Knoval said yesterday that he believed Mr. Arthur's will contained only private bequests. It is understood that provision is made for the appointment of a well known personal friend of Mr. Arthur as guardian for his daughter Nellie, who is about fourteen years old.

All the seven surviving members of Arthur's cabinet have been invited to act as pall bearers, and it is probable that five of his most intimate friends will be added. The members of his cabinet now living are Judge W. Q. Gresham, secretary of the treasury; Hugh McCulloch, secretary of the treasury; Robert T. Lincoln, secretary of war; W. E. Chandler, secretary of the navy; Frank Hatton, postmaster general; Henry M. Teller, secretary of the interior; Benj. Harris Brewster, attorney general.

ANOTHER CHANGE.

Mr. A. L. Griebel Transfers the Auditor's Office to Mr. J. B. Neizer.

Last evening Mr. A. L. Griebel relinquished the office of county auditor and handed the keys to his successor, Mr. J. B. Neizer. Mr. Griebel preferred to give Mr. Neizer possession and himself await a decision of the supreme court as to the legal tenure of his office, in regard which he has honest doubts. Mr. Griebel has been a good, honest, upright public servant, fearless in his duty and ever ready to act and labor for the best public interests. He leaves public life with clean hands and enjoys the respect and admiration of his fellow citizens. Happily indeed is it that he transfers the public trust into such capable hands, for Mr. Barney Niezer is a clear headed, honorable gentleman of splendid business qualifications and an established purpose to do right. THE SENTINEL predicts that Mr. Neizer will distinguish himself as an officer and it will please this paper to at all times aid and encourage him in his lofty ambition [illegible] he familiarizes himself with the business.

Mr. Charles McLain has always been genial and clever as chief clerk to Mr. Griebel and enjoys a thorough knowledge of the important affairs of the auditor's office. The other young gentlemen have been equally as efficient and acceptable in their departments.

THE WHEAT CROP.

The Outlook More Favorable Than in Former Years.

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 20.—C. A. King & Co., of this city, during the past four days, have received 1,200 reports from grain dealers and millers, covering nearly every important wheat county in Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and Kansas. The reports show that the wheat acreage sown this fall is a trifle larger in Ohio, Illinois, Indiana and Missouri. Kansas shows a slight decrease, and Michigan no change. The outlook for the growing crop is very favorable, and many of the reports say it never was better. Nearly half of the last crop remains in the interior, the country mills and warehouses averaging over half full. Michigan has the largest reserves, Ohio, next, while Indiana and Missouri have marketed more freely. Nearly half of the reports say the farmers are disposed to crib their corn, over one-third say they have none to spare and the remainder are disposed to sell now.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—The weather indications are as follows:

Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana, fair weather, nearly stationary temperature.

Michigan, generally fair weather, slightly warmer.

LOCAL NEWS.

Mr. Jim Roan was to-day promoted to the position of extra passenger conductor on the Pittsburg.

Foreman Ernest Robling, of the Wabash boiler shop, is confined to his residence by a sudden illness.

Mrs. Rev. A. Biewand, of Boston, is in the city, the guest of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Schmitz.

The Wabash pay car will positively leave St. Louis next Tuesday. Those employes here will not be paid before a week from Wednesday.

Miss Carrie DeWald returned from a visit to Dayton, Ohio, this afternoon. Her friend, Miss Ida Fink, accompanied her here and is her guest.

McDermut & Whitcomb received from New York to-day $100,000 in currency to be used in the practical department of their business college.

Mr. John Mohr will preside as organist at the Cathedral to-morrow morning, and the choir will render Weber's mass in G, with Flotow's "Veni Sancte."

The Literary society of the Congregational church met last night at the residence of Dr. W. B. Knapp. The attendance was large and the readings, which were mostly from Tennyson, were finely rendered. The next meeting will be held at the residence of Mr. Brooks French, on Fairfield avenue.

A large crowd attended the Salem fair last evening. Candy stand, postoffice, fish pond did the business. Little letter carriers were kept busy distributing letters. The fair may possibly be run an evening or two next week if the managers can make suitable arrangements. A fine dinner was served to-day and to-night a great crowd will be present.

Rev. H. B. Ridgway, D. D., delivered the initial lecture of the dollar course last evening, at the Wayne Street M. E. church, to an intelligent and very appreciative audience. His subject was "Richard Cobden, the British Commoner." The next lecture in the course is December 17, by J. R. Ridpath, the historian. The course will be popular.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Morris, of 30 Grand street, desire to return sincere thanks to the friends who showed so much sympathy and kindness to them in the dangerous and prolonged illness of their only child, and especial thanks are due to Father O'Leary and sisters of the Catholic faith, who went out from their own fold to act the good Samaritans. May God reward them for it. Also the neighbors, friends and physicians under whose charge and through whose care, through a divine Providence his life was spared.

A Missing Steamer Shows Up.

MANISTEE, Mich., Nov. 20.—The steam barge Manistique arrived at Frankfort, this morning, in search of her consorts, Marine and Menekaunee, lost off that port Thursday night.

As far as known no steam barge was wrecked in the vicinity of Frankfort. The schooner Libbee Nan of Chicago, is ashore on South Manitou island. A tug has gone to her assistance.

CARLISLE.

Why a Contest is Being Waged Against Him for Possession of His Seat—Attempt to Force Him into Opposition to the Labor Vote.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The Star says: "The fight against Carlisle means more than is seen on the surface. His name is being canvassed in connection with other posts of great honor, and the effect sought is to array the labor element of the Whole country, through one of its representatives, against him. Mr. Carlisle is a possible opponent of Mr. Beck in the senatorial contest in Kentucky, now only a little over a year off, and is considered as well by many people to possess the proper proportions for a vice-presidential candidate in the not very distant future. As a candidate, however, for either of those places, or for any place, he is handicapped by the active and organized opposition of the labor vote, and must needs fare badly in a popular contest. The hands of man like Jarrett are plainly visible in this business, and there is little doubt, indeed, that a movement is on foot, directed from under cover, to put the speaker in an attitude of opposition to labor, and to cover him, if possible, with Mr. Morrison in the condemnation of the general brotherhood of labor societies.

"Mr. Morrison, in the opinion of the Jarretts, has been done for. But there is considered yet another thrust necessary to dispatch Mr. Carlisle, and the calculation is that he will receive it in the contest which Mr. Thobe has been induced to inaugurate. It is unnecessary to add that, even if Mr. Thobe had a good case, Mr. Carlisle would not profit by fraud in any form, and there was no occasion to practice any in footing up returns which gave him on their legal face the majority he claims. There is no thought or hope, however, of seating Mr. Thobe; the point is to force Mr. Carlisle into opposition to an accredited champion of the labor movement upon a question purporting to affect the integrity of the ballot box. Out of that alone is expected to spring material sufficient to destroy the speaker as a man of influence in public affairs."

IRON ORE.

The Quality of the Metal Discovered West of Here in Miami County.

WABASH, Ind., Nov. 20.—It has been conclusively demonstrated that large quantities of iron ore exists in the vicinity of Denver, Miami county, fifteen miles northwest of this city, notwithstanding the impression that the reported discovery was a hoax. A News correspondent yesterday afternoon visited Denver and made a tour of the ore-bearing area. One mile north of Denver, along the bank of Weesw creek, a fine vein of Alabama ore crops out for a distance of several rods. This vein is three feet thick and the ore is of excellent quality. Three miles from Denver the red ore found in the iron districts of northern Michigan is found on the surface, one bold of five acres being a solid mound of iron. The territory on which iron has been discovered is, perhaps, three miles in breadth and four in length, and over this district the farmers for years have been turning up large pieces of ore without suspecting its character. Specimens have been sent Prof. E. T. Cox, ex-state geologist, and Secretary Crawford, of the Vigo Iron company, Terre Haute. From the latter, after making an examination of the specimens, a reply was received, stating that the ore was probably 40 per cent. iron, and making an offer for several car loads. A package of specimens was yesterday forwarded to Edward Orton, state geologist of Ohio, for analysis, and if his report is favorable no time will be lost in developing the "find."

A stock company with a capital of $5,000 has been formed in Denver with the following officers: President, Spencer Augur; vice president, Jacob Slapp; secretary, John E. Millison; treasurer, William Newbolt; superintendent, Smith Roy. This company has effected for a bonus of ten per cent. of the gross product the lease of 320 acres, and will at once set a force of men to work prospecting. A number of iron men from Michigan, New York and Ohio have already visited the locality and have expressed favorable opinions of the quality of the iron, and the people of Denver are sanguine of the future of the town. Land which for farming purposes before was held at $35 per acre cannot now be bought for $200, and visions of untold fortunes disturb the dreams of the staid old farmers in the neighborhood.

The Contests.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 20.—The investigation of the election frauds in this county by the federal court [illegible] continues, and will be concluded until the [illegible] nd the nature of the [illegible] ides any publica- [illegible] y is being given. [illegible] have been sum- [illegible] ve not been found by the marshal, but this fact does not justify the statement made in the Sentinel this morning that they have probably left the city. The names were handed in to the citizens' committee, and by them to District Attorney Turpie, and there is a probability that they were incorrectly written; at least, the marshal cannot find any trace of such men. One of these is given as "A. T. Bradley," and another, William Budelers. Neither of them can be found, but there is no reason to believe that they have run away, if there are such persons.

The Indiana Odd Fellows.

At the concluding session of the grand lodge of Odd Fellows yesterday Grand Master Grant announced the following appointments: Grand chaplain, Rev. R. F. Brewington, Knightstown; grand conductor, James M. Lang, Sullivan; grand guard, David Kuhn, Camden; grand herald, John Tracinel, Columbia City. Committee on the state of the order reported in favor of Indianapolis as the most suitable place for the location of the Colfax monument, and it will probably be placed in University park. It will cost about $12,000, and will be unveiled during the May meeting of the grand lodge in 1887, on which occasion there will be a grand parade of lodges and patriarchs militant.

Cattle Diseases in Wells County.

Dr. Pritchard, of Indianapolis, is in receipt of a letter from Dr. Fulton, health officer of Wells county, stating that cattle disease is raging to an alarming extent in the vicinity of Murray, and asking advice concerning it. Dr. P. states that the disease, sometimes known as blackleg, though very fatal among fat cattle, is not contagious, and is usually caused by change of pasturage. Lean animals are not afflicted by it. About 400 have fallen victims to it in Montgomery, Owen and Putnam counties, and others in various parts of the state. The disease is caused by blood poisoning, and is entirely distinct from pleuro-pneumonia and the affection which has been so fatal among blooded calves.

Mild weather again and everybody rejoices.

We can recommend our readers to use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup in all cases of coughs, colds, etc.

"Mother, the ladies are all out in spring dresses and I can't wear mine for fear of neuralgia." Pshaw, child, go and buy a bottle of Salvation Oil.

Sixty students are now in attendance at McDermut & Whitcomb's business college, corner of Calhoun and Main streets.

SATURDAY, NOV. 20, 1886.

MR. TAINTON'S new graphophone is expected to work wonders in reporting the debates of Congress. The instrument will record every word just as it is spoken, and will afterward repeat each word to the clerks, who can transcribe at their leisure.

THE late A. T. Stewart found it to his advantage to give to each head of a department of his business a percentage of the profits made in that department, in addition to a guaranteed salary. One year the head of the lace department earned $27,000, and the head of another department $20,000, the percentage being about one per cent. of the net profits in the department.

THE unlucky number figured conspicuously in the career of Richard Wagner. Born in 1813, he died after thirteen years of married life on Feb. 13. On March 13, 1861, his opera, "Tannhauser," was hissed in Paris. The number of letters forming his full name is thirteen, and his royal protector, Louis II. of Bavaria, was drowned on the 13th of June, 1886.

A MACKEREL with a collar on was a novelty caught in the black-bass trap at Gloucester, Mass. Around the fish was a rubber band such as used on preserve jars, and probably was put on there by some fisherman when the mackerel was a small tinker. The rubber band cut through the skin on the back, and if the mackerel had continued to grow the head would have been cut off by its rubber guillotine.

MR. SIMEON DUCK, of Victoria, B. C., is the seventh son of a seventh son. In 1867 he left London on the seventh day of the seventh month, and arrived in this country on the seventh day of the following month. When seeking an election to the British Columbia Parliament he was elected by seven votes, and the following year was defeated for the same office by the same number of votes.

THE network of railways of the kingdom of Saxony covers nearly five miles less in winter than in summer, a fact which Director Klauss recently proved in a lecture before the Dresden Industrial Society. It seems that a steel rail of 7½ meters in length, at a temperature of fifteen degrees Reaumer contracts eight millimeters. Saxony having 7,438,000 meters of rails (not tracks) the contraction from cold aggregates a total of 7,900 meters.

CAPTAIN JOSEPH BURY, who is now living quietly at Hailey, I. T., is to be remembered for his remarkable war record. When the rebellion broke out he spent $3,000 of his own money in organizing a regiment in Ohio. He went to the front, fought all through the war, and, when mustered out, had this indorsement placed on his discharge by his commanding officer: "This officer has not been absent from his command a day during the entire war."

A CORRESPONDENT in the Macon Telegraph says: "Many years ago the writer had in charge the mail of Gen. Wigfall, which had accumulated during his duties in the field. Looking wofully at a bushel basketful of it on his return, he said: 'Throw it in the fire.' Suiting the action to the word, he threw it into the fire without opening a letter, and then added by way of explanation: 'I will work for my friends, I will spend my money for them, I will fight for them, but I won't write for them.'"

THE royal tomb in the cave under the Church of St. Michael, in Munich, in which the mortal remains of King Ludwig II. were deposited, contains at present twenty-three coffins, including those of two Bavarian Princesses—one, the daughter of Emperor Charles VII., who died at 18 years; the other, a daughter of Duke Ferdinand Maria, who died at 20 years of age. Thus far the body of the late King is only incased in an oaken coffin, richly and artistically ornamented; in a short time the wooden receptacle will be inclosed in an elaborately wrought metal one, bearing the name and crown of the happy monarch.

A DAKOTA editor made the following statement in his paper: "Times being rather hard, we are going to take our wife to the home of our mother-in-law next week for a short visit; and we will give our readers a little vacation by not issuing any paper. They won't lose much, for there is little news going just now; and we print this week an editorial on the tariff which would have appeared next week. The only thing we have had to leave out on this account is Bill Jone's ad about a farm for sale, but that is of no consequence, as he hasn't paid us anything for it yet. Brethren, white paper is too blamed dear to fool it away when our mother-in-law will keep us a week for nothing."

ONE of the curiosities of the animal kingdom is the eulachon, or candlefish (Thaleichtys Pacificus) of the northeastern Pacific. It is about fourteen inches long, resembles the smelt in appearance, and is caught in large quantities in the early spring. It is the fattest of all known fishes, for which reason its dried and smoked flesh is highly esteemed as a warming food for winter by the Indians, by whom the oil is also drunk. So fat is the fish that when dried it burns with a bright flame until entirely consumed, forming a candle much used among the Indians, either with or without a wooden wick passed through the body.

THE Russian Minister of War, M. Vannovski, who recently attended some aeronautic experiments of the Imperial Technological Society, was amazed to notice among the spectators a military representative of the Austrian Government, and plainly expressed his dissatisfaction to the Secretary of the society. In spite of the Secretary's assurance that the experiments were of a general nature, that their results would be published, that the balloons were manufactured in Paris, and that the Austrian representative had, as a member of the society, an unquestioned right to be present, M. Vannovski was not to be pacified, and declared that he would see to it that the society received henceforth no more money from the Ministry of War for similar experiments.

A CITIZEN of Valdosta, Ga., having read the current story of a recent capture of a deer by a hook and line, writes to an Atlanta paper of an adventure with which he met several years ago. He was fishing in one of the mudholes near that place one afternoon and had poor success. Finally, as he was about to go home in disgust, he was startled by the sudden appearance of a three-foot snorting alligator, which swam rapidly in the fisherman's direction, and seemed bent on making a meal of him. The piscatorial artist soon regained his self-possession, and with an easy jerk of his fishing rod sent the hook with its dainty load within a few inches of the saurian's mouth. The reptile seized the hook and swallowed it. The lone fisherman then gave a quick jerk with the rod and the alligator was fast. Thirty minutes after this the man returned home, with the three-foot alligator and an exultant smile.

MR. STILLMAN, writing of the difficulties in the way of the exact classification of objects discovered in archæological researches, tells a curious story of the opening of a grave at Corinth. It had all the appearance of an ordinary grave of an antique Greek. In it were discovered a variety of vases and other remains of the classic time, very well preserved. But the surprise of the examiner was extreme when he discovered among the treasures a medal of Galileo, struck in the seventeenth century. This was very puzzling and it required much conjecturing to arrive at a solution of the mystery, which was this: Some enthusiastic collector, still under the influence of the former rage for the antique, must have had himself buried in the ancient style, with his treasures around him. Among them had slipped in, either by accident or design, this medal of a contemporary time. He may have had some hand in its preparation.

IT would seem, writes Labouchere, that the Prince of Wales' sons have been guilty of a very flagrant piece of plagiarism. No passage in "The Cruise of the Bacchante" has been so admirably quoted as the one written while between Barbadoes and Martinique, which begins: "We should be less than men," and ending: "But the sad memory of their useless valor," etc. It is indeed a most eloquent and effective passage, as well it may be, for it turns out to have been copied almost word for word from Charles Kingsley's charming work, "At Last," where it will be found in the second chapter. Canon Dalton allowed it to be published, without hint, happily without suspicion, of its origin. The princes, however, may console themselves under this unpleasant exposure by reflecting that they have only imitated Lord Beaconsfield, who, it may be remembered, borrowed nearly half his elaborate oration on the Duke of Wellington from a translation of a work by Thiers. It was stolen without the change of a single word. These royal authors have plundered Canon Kingsley in much about the same fashion.

PROF. RUDOLF VIRCHOW, the learned surgeon and physicist, has lately prepared some interesting tables concerning the color of the hair, eyes, and skin among the German school children. Six million seven hundred and fifty-eight thousand eight hundred and twenty-seven pupils were examined, being nearly four-fifths of all the youth of "A B C" age. Of those 2,149,027—31.04 per cent.—belonged to the blonde type; 949,822—14.05 per cent.—to the brunette, and 3,659,978—54.15 per cent.—to the blonde-brunette or mixed type, distinctly showing that more than one-half of the entire number are in the latter category, two-thirds of the remaining 46 per cent. being blondes. The territorial division of the principal types corresponds accurately to the geographical boundaries of North, South, and Middle Germany: 43.3—36 per cent.—of the pure blondes being found in the northern districts, 32.5—28.3 per cent.—in the middle, and 24.5—18 per cent.—in the southern ones. The River Main thus becomes an anthropological line of significance. In general, the further south one goes the more brunettes he meets—South Bavaria mustering but 14 per cent. blondes. Among the 75,376 Hebrew children the mixed type predominates also, the pure brunettes outnumbering the pure blondes, however, three-fold. Whereas the relation of the blondes to the brunettes among the Christians is 31.8 to 14, that among the Jewish children is as 11.29 to 42. The gray-eyed and dark-haired predominate in the mixed type. Many other results were brought to light, of more interest, however, to Germany than to the world at large. Prof. Virchow has devoted years to study of this nature, and his deductions may be accepted as categorical.

ST. PAUL Globe: "Did you go to the cemetery?" asked Mrs. Dutiful to Mrs. Funeralgoer, referring to a recent funeral in the neighborhood. "Yes," replied the person addressed. "How natural he looked," exclaimed the first speaker. "Just as if he was asleep." "I hardly noticed anything. I never enjoyed myself less in my life." "Why, what was the matter?" "Well, it looked very much as though we would have a wind storm, and I left the windows open at home, and I was so afraid it would rain and spoil my new carpet that I did not enjoy the funeral as I should have done."

THE annual report of the inspector of fisheries for England and Wales, says London Truth, contains some interesting information about the supply of eels. It seems that last year the consignment of these savory and nutritious fish from Holland to Billingsgate exceeded 1,000 tons, the money value being about £85,000. There is also an importation of eels from Germany, averaging 20,000 pounds every week. Ireland sends nearly 500 tons of eels to England every year, and Scotland sends 50 tons. The consumption of eels in London and its suburbs averages 1,650 tons a year, and is worth about £135,000. It is added that hardly any English eels find their way to London, a fact which metropolitan consumers have reason to deplore, as they are unsurpassed for richness and delicacy of flavor. The very best eels are those of the Kennet, Test, and Hants Avon. There is an inn at Romsey where they cook the Testfish to perfection.

A GENTLEMAN who owns a big clothing store, says the New York Times, was applied to by a young negro man for employment. There was a good deal of ambition in the young fellow, for he asked for a clerkship. He had a fair education, was quick in figures, and was blessed with a tongue that knew no halting. He didn't get the post of the salesman that he wanted, but was hired to play the part of a general utility man in the establishment at $6 a week. He did up bundles, ran errands, swept the floors—did general menial service. But he didn't complain. One day three or four weeks ago he approached the proprietor with a new proposition. "I suppose," said he, "that you've got no objection to my drumming up a little trade?" The merchant smiled, perhaps a little sarcastically, and assured the young man that he might drum to his heart's content. "And what's the commission?" quoth the business-like young man. The proprietor, amused, named a very liberal percentage. Before the week was over somebody else had to be hired to do the errand-running and other things in the general-utility line. The young black man had time only to receive his friends and show them the store's line of goods. In a moment he had developed into a full-blown salesman. His commissions on actual sales amounted for the first week to over $30. The next week they were twice that. The proprietor's eyes were wider open than ever they dared peep before. Such push and enterprise, such successes, were amazing from such a source. But he had made a good bargain and he sticks to it. Some of the white clerks objected a little at first, but that sort of prejudice is over now, and ex-errand boy brunette has been put on a salary that would make the heart of many a pale-skinned college graduate beat a little enviously.

COMING OF CHRIST.

Important Christian Meeting in Session at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—Notwithstanding the severe weather during the past two days, much interest has been manifested in the meetings and large crowds are in attendance. The main topic is "The Second Coming of Christ," and the remarks are of a very high standard. Rev. J. M. Orrock, editor of Messiah's Herald, Boston, in his remarks said: "There are some who hold that the Lord may come to-day; there are perhaps more of us who hold that He will come soon; but all of us are agreed that when He does come it will be before the millenium. It is a proper and reverent position occupied by those who are waiting, watching and working in the blessed hope of the second coming of our Lord. Many look for the world's conversion before the Lord should come. 'John Knox, of Scotland, cried out: 'There is no final rest to the whole body till the head return to judgment.' (Sermon on Isaiah, 26.) Calvin said: 'There is no reason why any person should expect the conversion of the world: for when it is too late and will yield them no advantage, they shall look on Him whom they have pierced.' (Institutes, Book, 3, chapter 9.) Luther, the great German, said in his comments on John x, 16: 'Some in explaining this passage, 'Other sheep I have,' say that before the latter days the whole world shall become Christians. This is a falsehood forged by Satan that he might darken sound doctrine, that we might not rightfully understand it. Beware therefore of this delusion.'"

His entire address was very fine, and seemed to bring his Christian hearers closer to Christ, causing a feeling that the second coming of Christ might be very soon. He made his hearers feel how little they are doing for Christ, since he has done so much for them. He urged them to be active in Christian work. Do not be idle or indifferent. Some ministers do much harm to their people and church by refusing to be active and conduc[illegible] [illegible]ngs. They want a boom i[illegible] [illegible]ot re[illegible] ligion. So[illegible] should reme[illegible] ieish was m[illegible] church in th[illegible]

early movement of Wesley and Whitefield was not very far removed from fanaticism. I do not sympathize with undue excitement, but I believe that people of ardent temperament are apt to get excited over other things than religion. If it must be, I should rather be tied to a man that had fits occasionally than to a dead man. I prefer the bustle of an active world to the stillness of a swamp. Give me the excitement of the living tree rather than the quietude of a petrified stump. A living dog is better than a dead lion.

George a Free Trader, Pure and Absolute.

[Boston Transcript.]

Here follows a little epistle from Henry George to a Connecticut friend, which is worthy of being placed on record:

NEW YORK, Oct. 12, 1886.—I am a free trader, pure and absolute, and regard protection as a fraud on workingmen. If I were a citizen of Connecticut I would sign your circular or do anything I could to show the workers how they are humbugged by a tariff which, while protecting favored capitalists and land-owners, leaves them free to grind the faces of their employes.

Yours truly,
HENRY GEORGE.

Should Sudden serious illness overtake you, be prepared in time, by keeping at hand a bottle of Pond's Extract. For all inflammation or hemorrhage, used internally or externally, it is the greatest known remedy. Some families have used it so long, and have such faith in it, that for such illness they say, "Take some of Pond's Extract," or for a hurt or accident, "Put some of Pond's Extract on it," as naturally as one says "good morning." Refuse any spurious imitation.

The recount for auditor of Tippecanoe county, gave Barnes, (dem.,) an increase of fifteen votes, making his majority sixty-five.

Superindendent Holcombe, in his forthcoming annual report, will state that the tuition revenue of the state is $3,426,219.35; the special revenue, $1,543,654.36, making the total resources of the schools, $4,969,,873.26

In the Dear Old Days.

We differ in creed and politics, but we are a unit all the same on the desirableness of a fine head of hair. If you mourn the loss oft his blessing and ornament, a bottle or two of Parker's Hair Balsam will make you look as you did in the dear old days. It is worth trying. It is the only standard 50c article for the hair.

Card of Thanks to the Friends and Patrons of Joseph Biechle, Canton, Ohio.

I have sold my soaps in the City of Fort Wayne and surrounding towns longer than any manufacturer in this country, and have always tried to please. The sale of my soaps to the good citizens show that the good quality of my soaps are appreciated better than all others. I always sell honest goods at reasonable prices to put them in the reach of the poor as well as the rich. Thanking you for the liberal patronage bestowed upon me and awaiting the same for the future, I remain very truly yours,

JAMES M. DINNEN,

"UNCLE REMUS."

The True Story of Joel Chandler Harris, Dialect Author.

It is a pity to disturb the romantic tale that has gone about the country in reference to this popular writer. But the truth is, he was not born in Africa, but in Putnam county, Ga. He isn't a great Hebrew and Sanscrit scholar either, but just a talented American boy, who never went to school anywhere enough to spoil him. Neither did his sweetheart die of yellow fever and leave him alone with his grief and a head of snow white hair. His hair is not white with grief, but is thick, strong and stubby, and a good, honest red. His first work for the public was in a shanty printing office in the woods.

JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS.

But the shanty printing office was burned during Sherman's march to the sea. Then young Harris went to Savannah, thence to Atlanta. Like Artemus Ward, this later genuine American humorist began life a printer. He was a reporter on The Atlanta Constitution when he wrote the first Uncle Remus sketch. It struck the note of success. The Uncle Remus stories are a lasting part of American literature as much as Burns' poetry is a part of Scotch life and history.

It is pleasant to know, too, that he did not invent the plantation stories and sketches, but that they are genuinely what they assume to be. Mr. Harris has gathered up the negro folk lore of the south and preserved it in permanent form. Only for him many choice and quaint treasures of literature would have been lost.

The best known of the sketches is the strange and striking legend of "Brer Fox and the Tar Baby and Brer Rabbit." Mr. Harris is 40 years old, a delightful friend and a hard worker in literature and journalism. The Century magazine now publishes his productions in advance of their appearance elsewhere.

FORTY YEARS IN ONE PULPIT.

Rev. Dr. R. S. Storrs and His Long Pastorate.

On Nov. 19, forty years ago, Rev. R. S. Storrs was installed as pastor of the Church of the Pilgrims in Brooklyn, N. Y. The population of that city was then 60,000; it is now approaching 1,000,000. His church was the pioneer Congregational church in that city, antedating Mr. Beecher's church by two years. The stone edifice completed in 1864 was considered very extravagant in those days. And true to the name which the church adopted, it inserted a fragment of the veritable rock on which the "forefathers" landed, in the front of the building, like the famous Blarney stone in the castle of that name.

REV. DR. R. S. STORRS.

Dr. Storrs is the fourth of a line of clergymen representing as many generations. His father was for sixty years pastor of a church in Braintree, Mass., where Dr. Storrs was born in 1821. Dr. Storrs graduated from Amherst college in 1839, five years after Mr. Beecher. In 1848 Dr. Storrs with Dr. Leonard Bacon and Dr. Joseph P. Thompson founded The Independent, which he edited until 1861. In 1881 Dr. Storrs had completed the thirty-fifth year of his pastorate, on which occasion his congregation presented him with a purse of $35,000, $1,000 for each year. In person Dr. Storrs is large, tall, stately; in manners dignified and polite; in intercourse, to his tried and trusted friends, cordial; and in social life genial, and often witty and humorous. For many years Dr. Storrs delivered his sermons from the manuscript, but a few years ago he laid aside the written sermon and since that time he has practised and advocated preaching without notes, having published a book on the subject.

The Late Fred Archer.

The death of Fred Archer, the famous jockey, is looked upon as a national calamity in England. Few British statesmen would have excited the regret at their taking away that this horseman did. Witness the condolences that poured in on his sister after the occurrence from the aristocracy, even to the very throne, and the day of his funeral at Newmarket business was suspended and the whole place thrown into mourning. It shows the peculiar interest Englishmen take in their national sport and the affection which they have for those who are promoters of it. When Archer came to America a couple of years ago he was surprised that he did not receive the same homage here he was accustomed to. Archer had not yet reached his 30th year, still he had accumulated a fortune of over $300,000 as a jockey. He always backed the horse he rode, and he would not ride other than a good horse. Of late years he had, his choice, which accounts largely for his success. During the last six years of his life he came in a winner 1,269 times. He received besides his legitimate earnings large purses from his admirers. Mr. Lorillard presented him with $5,000 on the occasion of his winning the Derby on Iroquois in 1881. Archer was 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighed 118 pounds; his legs were remarkably supple and wiry, he could wind them around a horse's body when it was impossible to unseat him. But then he possessed remarkable nerve and a quick judgment, without which his calliper legs would have been of no avail.

DARING DONAVAN,

Who Jumped From Niagara's High Bridge 200 Feet to the Rapids.

What is the end of fame? 'tis but to fill
A certain portion of the daily paper;
Some liken it to climbing on a bridge
To jump and splash, then all is lost in vapor.

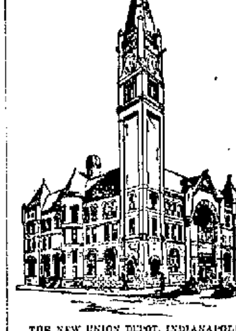

So Byron might have written were he with us now, for the most famous man on the 8th of November was Lawrence M. Donovan, whose exploit of jumping from the Niagara suspension bridge, 200 feet to the icy rapids below, filled the most important place in the papers of that date. It was a foolhardy act, but the man who dared the accomplishment of it is entitled to all the little fame he receives for his courage. For it appears that his motive is meritorious enough—the bettering of the fortunes of his aged father and mother and two sisters, who are depending on him for support. Nature gifted Donovan with the faculty of determination, as will be remarked in his portrait. At his work as a pressman's assistant in a newspaper office he could earn scarcely a bare living. So he determined on making himself famous and thus bettering his chances in life. He is a temperate young man of 24, and taking a few of his companions into his confidence he proceeds deliberately to practice for such feats as this by jumping from High bridge, on the Harlem river, New York, to the water. This he did successfully four times. Then he surprised all New York one morning by jumping from the great Brooklyn bridge, 135 feet, to the water. To do this he had to keep his purpose a secret from his parents and elude the police, who are stationed on the bridge to prevent just such occurrences. His coolness and determination overcame the obstacles.

L. M. DONOVAN.

Later he went to Rochester for the purpose of making the jump at the Genesee falls, wherein Sam Patch lost his life. He was prevented from doing this. But his last feat at Niagara eclipses anything of the kind ever attempted. At 7 o'clock one chilly morning he climbs up on the iron railing of the great Suspension bridge, knocks some ice from under his feet to secure a firm footing and at the signal of a pistol shot he springs into the air. In four seconds he strikes the icy rapids, 200 feet below. He is kept under by the current, to come to the surface about sixty feet from where he struck the water. The shock of striking the water breaks one of his ribs and renders him insensible, but he is rescued and resuscitated. While the doctor is bandaging him he decides that he has "tempted Providence long enough and that he has made his last jump." It is to be hoped that he may be as determined in this resolution as in others, for his bravery is deserving of a worthier cause!

A Much Needed Improvement.

THE NEW UNION DEPOT, INDIANAPOLIS.

Indianapolis is at last promised a new depot. It will be one "long felt want" filled; at least for years citizens and travelers have complained of the smoky structure that was used by the thirteen railroads that deposited and received passengers there. All recognized the necessity for a new structure, but the rival interests could not agree until now. The railroads appear to be determined to make up for their past neglect, for this new depot will be one of which the Hoosier capital will have cause to be proud. The plans have just been accepted, and our illustration gives a very good idea of its proposed external appearance.

The First Keen Twinge.

As the season advances the pains and aches by which rheumatism makes itself known, are experienced after every exposure. It is not claimed that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a specific for rheumatism—we doubt if there is, or can be, such a remedy. But the thousands benefitted by Hood's Sarsaparilla, warrant us in urging others who suffer from rheumatism to take it before the first keen twinge.

The advance in war machinery, material, and weapons of every description makes a different mode of warfare necessary, said Gen. Phil Sheridan to a Chicago News reporter. Armies will not attack each other in the field like this. An army must be dug out, starved out, or may be forced out by position. At all events, we must have one of two things—either a long, tedious method, wearing alike on men and the impedimenta, or a rapid and vigorous attack upon real property, commerce, railroad, steamboat. What is naval warfare? Simply a war on commerce. Effective? Very. Why not the same on land? There is little doubt that the horse must play a larger part in future wars than anything we saw or heard of. And I am not sure but what this is the humanitarian view. We should certainly save life, and lives of human beings should always be preserved at the expense of real property. I think I am right in this. Anything that shortens a war, stops the conflict, is desirable. Of course we should have bitter fighting at points; that would be necessary. But a war to-day would be a new thing.

To the Cuticura Remidies I Owe My Health, My Happiness, and My Life.

A day never passes that I do not think and speak kindly of the Cuticura Remedies. Seven years ago, all of a dozen lumps formed on my neck, ranging in size from a cherry stone to an orange. The large ones were frightful to look at, and painful to bear; people turned aside when they saw me, in disgust, and I was ashamed to be on the street or in society. Physicians and their treatment, and all medicines failed to do any good. In a moment of despair I tried the Cuticura Remedies—Cuticura, the great skin cure, and Cuticura Soap, an exquisite skin beautifier, externally, and Cuticura Resolvent, the new blood purifier, internally; the small lumps (as I call them) gradually disappeared, and the large ones broke, in about two weeks, discharging large quantities of matter, leaving two slight scars in my neck to-day to tell the story of my suffering. My weight then was one hundred and fifteen sickly pounds; my weight now is one hundred and sixty-one solid, healthy pounds, and my height is only five feet two inches. In my travels I praised the Cuticura Remedies, North, South, East and West. To Cuticura Remedies I owe my health, my happiness, and my life. A prominent New York druggist ask me the other day, "Do you still use the Cuticura Remedies; you look to be in perfect health?" My reply was, "I do, and shall always. I have never known what sickness is since I commenced using the Cuticura Remedies." Sometimes I am laughed at by praising them to people not acquainted with their merits, but sooner or later they will come to their senses and believe the same as those that use them, as dozens have whom I have told. May the time come when there shall be a large Cuticura supply house in every city in the world, for the benefit of humanity, where the Cuticura Remedies shall be sold only, so there will be rarely a need of ever entering a drug store.

Sneezing Catarrh
The distressing sneeze, sneeze, sneeze, the acrid, watery discharges from the eyes and nose, the painful inflammation extending to the throat, the swelling of the mucous lining, causing choking sensations, coughs, ringing noises in the head and splitting headaches—how familiar these symptoms are to thousands who suffer periodically from head colds or influenza, and who live in ignorance of the fact that a single application of Sanford's Radical Cure for Catarrh will afford instantaneous relief.

But this treatment in cases of simple catarrh gives but a faint idea of what this remedy will do in the chronic forms, where the breathing is obstructed by choking, putrid mucous accumulations, the hearing affected, smell and taste gone, throat ulcerated and hacking cough gradually fastening itself upon the debilitated system. Then it is that the marvelous curative power of Sanford's Radical Cure manifests itself in instantaneous and grateful relief. Cure begins from the first application. It is rapid, radical, permanent, economical, safe.

Sanford's Radical Cure consists of one bottle of the Radical Cure, one box Catarrhal Solvent and an improved Inhaler; price, $1.

Catarrh in the Head

Catarrh is inflammation of the mucous membrane, attended with increased secretion. Thus catarrh may affect the head, throat, stomach, bowels, or any part of the body where the mucous membrane is found. But catarrh of the head is by far the most common, coming on so gradually that often its presence is not suspected till it has obtained a firm hold on its victim. It is caused by a cold, or a succession of colds, combined with

Impure Blood.

When firmly established the disease is exceedingly disagreeable, causing flow from the nose, dryness of the throat, headache, loss of appetite, roaring and buzzing noises in the ears, etc. In Hood's Sarsaparilla may be found a prompt and permanent cure for catarrh. It purifies and enriches the blood, soothes and rebuilds the diseased membrane, and thus soon cures the disease. At the same time it refreshes and tones the whole system. The remarkable success of this peculiar medicine entitles it to your confidence. Give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

"I am happy to state that I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, with which I have been troubled many years, and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head. The efforts to clear my head in the morning by hawking and spitting was painful. My grocer advised me to try and it gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without the medicine in my house, as I think it is worth its weight in gold." MRS. G. B. GIBB, 1029 Eighth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

"I have used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh with very satisfactory results. I have received more permanent benefit from it than from any other remedy I have ever tried." M. E. READ, of A. Read & Son, Wauseon, Ohio.

Mr. M. Koch, of the Star Clothing House, left for New York yesterday. The trade of this noted firm exceeds by far anything in its history. Look out for the boss line of holiday specialties and clothing novelties.

Hon. Henry Mouning, of this city, attended the Iroquois club banquet, at Chicago, and sat to a feast with the great democratic statesmen of the nation. Mr. Mouning is always an invited guest at these feasts.

Last evening at the Fort Wayne college the Thalonian society fairly eclipsed their own splendid record. The large and select audience was immensely pleased and left wishing that the evening had been twice as long. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend on next Friday evening.

A fine black team of horses, the property of the Concordia college, stood untied on East Main street, this morning, and ran away before the driver could emerge from a store. They dashed eastward and at Barr street ran into a water hydrant on the sidewalk, smashing the wagon into bits and liberating themselves. The animals were afterward captured.

Judge Chapin has appointed a young man named John Hall as bailiff of the superior court. It would have been better and more in accordance with the civil service the judge spoke of during the campaign to continue the gentlemanly and courteous John Daily in that place. THE SENTINEL yet suggests the propriety of his retention to Judge Chapin, who was elected by an independent vote.

The Nickel Plate men were paid yesterday.

Robert Simonton and John I. Dille, the chairman and secretary of the Huntington county republican central committee were presented with gold headed canes engraved in memory of the late campaign. Here the republican chairman and secretary were criticised by the republican press.

The Fort Wayne and Decatur gravel road, running off of South Calhoun street, is finished and toll gates are established to collect money from travelers. President Will McKinnie drove over his thoroughfare yesterday and farmers and plump milk maids gave the young agriculturalist a great reception.

A grand prize hunt between Captains Diggins and Kelly, with twenty picked men each, will take place next Thursday near Kendallville. The game is to be owls, foxes, hawks, woodchucks, chipmucks, crows and blackbirds. Bear, wolf and wildcats are excluded, and no credit will be given for these, we understand.

Colonel Briant's old war horse "Pat," died last Friday afternoon, at Huntington, at the ripe age of twenty-nine years. On Saturday the animal was buried on the farm of Mr. Briant, where he died. "Pat" was captured from the confederates January 3, 1864, near Charleston, Tenn. Colonel Briant rode the horse in a sham battle here two years ago.

The offer of Rev. Wilkinson, of Rome City, to take his next quarter's salary all in pie, is creating a sensation and will make the ladies stare, as it will in all probability exceed in size the one made at Denbydale, Yorkshire, England, on August 27, 1846, which was seven yards in circumference, containing among other things, five sheep and fifteen rabbits.

At Indianapolis the mayor and chief of police propose to close all saloons on Sunday and at 11 o'clock at night. THE SENTINEL honestly agrees with the News that similar enforcements should be enacted here—not by the reform league, but by the officers who are elected and appointed, and whose sworn duty it is to see that all laws are observed. If the enforcement was made general in this city THE SENTINEL believes every liquor dealer would appreciate it and acquiesce. At any rate laws were made to observe, not to violate and ignore, and tax papers will insist on action pretty soon.

The Indianapolis News says of the great actor to be here next Wednesday: "Emmet played to a big house at the Grand last night. Emmet always plays to big houses in Indianapolis, regardless of his play or his support. Little fault is to be found with either this time. 'Fritz,' as now put upon the stage, is a very pleasing piece, and of course Emmet as Fritz is beyond criticism. He looks better, sings better and acts better than he has done for years. His ballads, of which there are about a dozen, always calls for an encore. Several of them are new and taking. His leading support is good, including the little children and Mr. Emmet's $6,000 St. Bernard dog."

Mr. C. A. McDonald, city editor of the South Bend Times, was married at Berrien Springs, Mich., on Wednesday evening last, to Miss Fannie E. Bradley.

The Monroeville Breeze says: "Miss Mary Willard, of Fort Wayne, attended the cracker bon-bon social at the residence of her sister, Mrs. C. S. Ridenour, Friday evening last."

Engineer Glenn has resumed his regular place on Wabash passenger locomotive 1181 and will continue in the service of the road until April, when he will enter upon the duties of county clerk, at Huntington.

Here is an illustration of what building and loan associations will do for a town. An exchange says that five hundred new houses will be built in Indianapolis next season by building and loan association money.

Dan Green, formerly a brakeman on Wabash through freight between Andrews and Toledo, and also on the local run between Fort Wayne and Toledo, is conducting a meat market at his home in South Toledo, Ohio, and is doing a prosperous business.

A Monroe correspondent says: "That there is some enterprise in our little city is evidenced by the fact that a resident of Monroeville, Ind., recently bought the Charles Munson property. He proposes starting saloon number two. Our people will object in the way of a remonstrance."

The Huntington News-Express says: "Master Mechanic Morris, of Fort Wayne, was at the Andrews round house Wednesday. He had just been over the eastern division of the Wabash with the railway officials, and reports the road bed and rolling stock in the best condition known for years."

The city council will meet next Tuesday evening in regular session. The Electric street railroad ordinance again comes up and public sentiment is against letting that line cross every public street in the city with its unsightly poles, arms and wires extending along the proposed route of the experimental affair.

The Andrews correspondent of the Huntington News-Express says: "Conductor C. E. Brinsley has been granted an indefinite leave of absence and is in Fort Wayne attending to his father (J. C. Brinsley's) interest in a feed yard in that city, that gentleman being sick and not able to look after the business. Conductor Ed. Keys is in charge of Brinsley's crew during this time."

The Grand Rapids and Indiana railroad is experimenting with a new patent electric alarm, to be used as a safeguard at dangerous railroad crossings. About a quarter of a mile from the crossing, on the railroad, is an iron dog, and trains running over it strike a gong at the crossing, which gives passing teams half a minute's warning that a train is approaching. The invention is as yet simply an experiment, but if it proves a success it will be placed at dangerous crossings along the road.

Over thirty years ago the Grand Masonic lodge of Indiana passed a stringent edict against saloons and the liquor traffic generally among the members of the fraternities in this state, since which time that edict has been generally enforced by several lodges throughout the jurisdiction, so that now a saloon or liquor shop kept by a Mason is not perhaps to be found in the state. A very large number of the grand lodges in the United States soon followed Indiana in enforcing a similar edict among their subordinates.

The Pittsburg machine shops were closed yesterday by a break in the machinery caused by the night force in shutting down. All departments were in operation to-day.

The Berry Street M. E. church will hold a fair and festival in the new White building, corner Calhoun and Wayne streets, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of next week. A special Thanksgiving dinner will be given on Thursday, to which all are cordially invited.

Hon. Andy Ellison threatens to have Postmaster Frank Snyder removed from office at Lagrange by pushing a suit against him for not delivering the democratic mail to a mugwump chairman up there. A delegation from Fort Wayne will go to Washington to back Mr. Snyder if he is injured because of his politics.

Geo. Chapman, of Walkerton, Ind., a former resident of Pleasant township, this county, who has been visiting relatives here, returned home this afternoon. Mr. Chapman is the superintendent-elect of the St. Joe county infirmary and will take charge of that institution December 1.

The Lagrange Democrat says: "We have it from good authority that Dr. Parker has not retired from the Kendallville News at all, and that the pretended lease of it to two of Parker's employes is a ruse to recover its business under cover of the good name borne by young men who are known to be good Democrats."

The Wabash Plain Dealer says: "In the case of the state of Indiana ex rel. Sutton et al. vs. the Board of County Commissioners, seeking an order in the circuit court to compel the board of county commissioners by mandamus to proceed with the construction of the range line free gravel road, the court today, Judge Morris, of Fort Wayne, on the bench, sustained plaintiff's demurrers to all paragraphs of defendant's answers except one and two, from which it would seem that the road would in time have to be constructed by the defendant."
